

Waste collector pleads guilty to overbilling

WILMINGTON - A local man and his North Woburn-based company have pleaded guilty to charges they inflated the cost of solid waste disposal for the Town of Tewksbury.

According to the Office of Attorney General Thomas Reilly, Wilmington resident Andrew Roketenetz, Jr., 34, added commercial waste to Tyngsborough's residential waste and charged the town for the combined tonnage. Last week, Roketenetz and his company, Acme Waste Systems, Incorporated, pleaded guilty in Middlesex Superior Court to five counts of presentation of false claims and one count of procurement fraud.

Roketenetz and Acme were each sentenced to probation for five years. They must also disclose their convictions to any government entity with which they do business during their probation. Furthermore, they must pay restitution to the Town of Tyngsborough for an amount to be determined at a court hearing yet to be scheduled. Lastly, Roketenetz must perform 500 hours of community service or pay a $12,000 fine. Reilly says that he is pleased that the officials and residents of Tyngsborough will be compensated for their losses.

"The sentence imposed by the court not only awards restitution but holds the company and its owner accountable," Reilly says.

Roketenetz serves as president and one of the drivers of Acme Waste, a corporation that has specialized in waste disposal since 1999.

In 2000, after seeking bids for new disposal services, the Town of Tyngsborough awarded Acme two contracts for the disposal of residential solid waste and recyclables. Under the solid waste contract, Acme billed the town on a monthly basis for a set transportation fee and a variable "tipping fee" based on the tons of residential waste collected. The tipping fee was calculated by multiply-

Airfield to be dedicated to pilot of Flight 11

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

TEWKSBURY - To honor one of the pilots who died on board the planes used as missiles during the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001, one can look to the skies.

The 495th R/C Squadron will be doing exactly that when the club dedicates its Tewksbury-based flying field to Captain John Ogonowski on Saturday, September 11. Ogonowski was the pilot of American Airlines Flight 11, which was the first plane to crash into the World Trade Center on that dark September morning three years ago.

Dick Fedorchuk, a member of the squadron, knew Ogonowski best through the pilot's parents, who used to visit their relatives, Fedorchuk's neighbors, in Haverhill when he was young. Fedorchuk got to know the Ogonowskis through a lot of shared barbecues and family parties.

"John was a quiet man," Fedorchuk says. "He was a humanitarian."

He was also a passionate advocate for land conservation, so this Saturday's dedication should prove especially poignant, for it takes place on land at the Tewksbury State Hospital recently secured for preservation by the state.

The dedication, which will take place on Pinnacle Street in Tewksbury, will begin this Saturday at eleven in the morning. During the ceremony, the squadron will formally dedicate a sign at the field that reads "Captain John A. Ogonowski Memorial Flying Field, Home of the 495th R/C Squadron." The squadron funded the sign, which is six feet wide, three feet high, arched on top, blue in its face and gold in its lettering.

Senator Sue Tucker, Representative James Miceli and Town Manager David Cressman will be among those who speak at the ceremony. Governor Mitt Romney has sent a letter to the squadron that will be read that morning.

The 495th R/C Squadron is a club of radio-controlled model aircraft enthusiasts who are dedicated to the promotion, education and enjoyment of aeromodeling activities in a safe environment. Sure enough, after Saturday's dedication, the squadron will hold its annual picnic and flying demonstrations. At one point, club member Rupert Kosmala will take to the skies and do a candy drop for the kids below. The public, especially the club's neighbors on Pinnacle Street, is invited to attend.

State primary is this Tuesday

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Wilmington residents will have an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the new optical scanning AccuVote voting systems while casting their votes during the State Primary on Tuesday, September 14.

In accordance with the federally enacted Help America Vote Act of 2002, Wilmington has abandoned its 30-year old pull lever voting machines in favor of state-of-the-art technology.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and will close at 8 p.m. for registered voters. The deadline for registering to vote to be eligible for the September primary was August 25; those unsure whether they are currently registered are encouraged to call or stop by the Town Clerk's Office at 121 Glen Road anytime during regular business hours.

Voters in Precincts 1 and 2 should report to the West Intermediate School on Carter Street to cast their votes. Those in Precincts 3 and 4 can cast their ballots at the Wildwood Street School on Wildwood Street, and voters in Precincts 5 and 6 can do so at the Wilmington Town Hall on Glen Road.

During the primary voters will cast votes for Representative in Congress, Councillor, Senator in General Court, Representative in General Court, and Sheriff.

The race for Sheriff of Middlesex County is the only contest on the Democrat ballot. James DiPaola is defending his current position against fellow Democrats Robert DeMoura of Chelmsford and Brian Gillis of Lowell.

Gillis, a 16-year Sergeant with the Sheriff's Office, is looking to bring the focus of the Sheriff's Office back to rehabilitation. According to Gillis, DiPaola has shifted the focus more towards law enforcement and has used resources that Gillis would have put towards rehabilitative efforts for the purchase of an armored assault vehicle and a $1 million Mobile Command Unit. Gillis also accuses DiPaola of creating dishonesty among union officials and practicing excessive favoritism when hiring.

"I will increase integrity and trust within law enforcement," Gillis said.

DeMoura was not available for comment.

The Republican Party has not presented a candidate for the Middlesex County Sheriff race.

Suspect allegedly lured youth with chat room talks

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Local authorities arrested and charged James Capiello, 38, of Andover, with kidnapping, raping a child by force, and committing indecent assault and battery on a person over the age of 14.

According to Police Inspector Pat King, A 14-year-old local youth was accessing the Internet at Wilmington Memorial Library and "met" Capiello in an online chat room. Capiello claimed to be 17 years old and the two developed an ongoing online friendship in which they discussed school and their day-to-day activities. After gaining the youth's trust, Capiello allegedly arranged a meeting at a public location in Wilmington in late April, during which they would "hang out" together.

According to King, when the WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Police Department has identified two suspects in the recent rash of car breaks and thefts that have been occurring in several local neighborhoods since the beginning of August.

The thefts, which usually occur between midnight and two in the morning, have unfolded in recent weeks in such areas as Marcia Road, Pineridge Road, Linda Road, Carolyn Road and Allgrove Lane.

Richard S. Williams, 40, of Chelsea and East Boston, and Susan Harmison, 45, of East Boston, have been identified as two prime suspects. Both have been captured on videotape at stores in East Boston, using credit cards that have been reported as stolen from vehicles parked in Wilmington and Billerica during the past two weeks.

Wilmington authorities are working closely with the Billerica and East Boston

Police Departments and the Roxbury District Court, where Williams is currently on probation for unrelated charges. Williams was released from jail on July 27; it was shortly after that, on August 2, when the Wilmington Police Department began to receive several calls about car thefts and break-ins.

Williams is no stranger to Wilmington. According to Lieutenant Christopher Neville, he had been on several sprees of similar offenses in town during the late 1990s and 2001. He has been convicted and has served jail time for both prior incidents.

According to Neville, Williams has typically only entered cars that have been left unlocked by their owners. He also tends to allegedly steal cash and other valuables from the cars' consoles and glove boxes. If keys are left in a car, then Williams

BIKE THIEVES. The Wilmington Police Department has released this photograph of these two individuals, who broke into B&L Enterprises at the corner of Main and Eames Streets early in the morning on Saturday, August 21. When police happened upon the scene during a routine patrol, they discovered that two mini-motorcycles had been stolen from inside the garage. Police later learned that the entire theft was recorded on a closed circuit video system. As a result, Wilmington authorities are seeking two white males believed to be in their late teens or early 20s. One male is stocky and appears to have a "high and tight" haircut with shaved or short hair on the sides. He was wearing a light-colored tee-shirt. The second male is shorter in stature and appears to have a regular haircut. Both motorbikes were put into what is believed to be a mid to late 1990s GM-style, 4-door vehicle. Anyone with information is encouraged to call Wilmington police at 978-658-5071.

Wilmington authorities are working closely with the Billerica and East Boston

Police Departments and the Roxbury District Court, where Williams is currently on probation for unrelated charges. Williams was released from jail on July 27; it was shortly after that, on August 2, when the Wilmington Police Department began to receive several calls about car thefts and break-ins.

Williams is no stranger to Wilmington. According to Lieutenant Christopher Neville, he had been on several sprees of similar offenses in town during the late 1990s and 2001. He has been convicted and has served jail time for both prior incidents.

According to Neville, Williams has typically only entered cars that have been left unlocked by their owners. He also tends to allegedly steal cash and other valuables from the cars' consoles and glove boxes. If keys are left in a car, then Williams

BIKE THIEVES. The Wilmington Police Department has released this photograph of these two individuals, who broke into B&L Enterprises at the corner of Main and Eames Streets early in the morning on Saturday, August 21. When police happened upon the scene during a routine patrol, they discovered that two mini-motorcycles had been stolen from inside the garage. Police later learned that the entire theft was recorded on a closed circuit video system. As a result, Wilmington authorities are seeking two white males believed to be in their late teens or early 20s. One male is stocky and appears to have a "high and tight" haircut with shaved or short hair on the sides. He was wearing a light-colored tee-shirt. The second male is shorter in stature and appears to have a regular haircut. Both motorbikes were put into what is believed to be a mid to late 1990s GM-style, 4-door vehicle. Anyone with information is encouraged to call Wilmington police at 978-658-5071.

EARLY MORNING SCARE. Mary Kiesinger assesses the damage to her lawn and home that resulted when a motorist in a Hyundai Accent went off the road at 197 Salem Street in Wilmington and slammed into her home at 4:41 a.m. on the morning of Wednesday, September 8. At press time, the Wilmington Police Department had not yet established the cause of the accident. "This is the second time that a car has hit this house, at the exact same spot," Kiesinger says. "The car this morning came from the same direction. It's because of the dangerous curve on the road and the excessive speed of motorists." (Maureen Lamoureux photo)

Tewksbury Public Schools

Procedure established for classroom websites

By STEPHEN BJORK

TEWKSBURY - The School Committee approved procedures for the creation and posting of classroom web pages during its meeting on Wednesday, September 1.

Teachers in Tewksbury have become increasingly savvy in the area of technology, thanks to opportunities made available to them by the school system. More teachers and students throughout the district are creating their own websites, especially with the increase of the number of computers in classrooms that has accompanied the construction of the Ryan School and the renovation of the Wynn Middle School.

During the September 1 meeting, Assistant Superintendent of Schools Loreen Bradley recommended to the School Committee the adoption of formal procedures to establish websites.

"It is in my opinion, and with the advice of counsel, that we bring consistency to this process," Bradley said. "We are not trying to squelch enthusiasm in any way. We are trying to implement procedures and to bring some consistency to the web pages."

The protection of student anonymity was a major impetus for Bradley's recommendation. Procedures stipulate, for instance, that the posting of students' last names on a web page is strictly prohibited. Revealing any personal information, such as addresses, phone numbers, and so on, is likewise prohibited.

According to Jamie Foss, the Webmaster for Tewksbury Public Schools, the webpages are actively visited by students, both past and present, parents, and many others. According to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Christine McGrath, families that are considering moving to Tewksbury frequently explore such websites.

From a legal standpoint, the Website Guidelines/Procedures prohibits the use of commercial icons and the endorsement of commercial procedures. Any copyrighted material may be used only after receiving written permission from the copyright holder.

Any attempt to deliberately degrade or disrupt the system's performance may be viewed as not only a violation of district policy but also as a potential criminal violation of applicable state and federal laws. Such attempts include, but are not limited to, the uploading or creation of computer viruses. Furthermore, Tewksbury Public Schools will cooperate fully with local, state, or federal investigations relating to or concerning the misuse of the district's network.

The School Committee voted unanimously to adopt the Website Guidelines/Procedures, which will be included in Student Handbook and distributed to all faculty staff.

It's Your Money

WHY FILE A GIFT RETURN?

Yes, you can give as much as $1,000 a year to as many people as you want without having to file a gift return. But sometimes it's advisable to get that gift down on paper and registered with the government, even if you don't have to.

Here's why: if that gift consists of property instead of cash or stock that's publicly traded, you want to establish its value at the time it was given; this is the gift's basis. Filing that return limits the time period - no more than three years - in which the Internal Revenue Service can challenge the value of the gift.

When a gift is given, we never know how much or how quickly it will appreciate in years to come. The return on file protects the tax status of the giver.

Looking for a way to give more to a child or grandchild without running afoul of gift-tax regulation? Remember there is no limit to how much you can give via tuition paid directly to a college.

You'll always get good tax advice from the helpful tax professionals at:

Before All Others

"We did not know how to react in the appropriate fashion. We have showed weakness in the face of danger, and the weak get beaten up."

President Vladimir Putin spoke that harsh, devastating truth last week, after the siege of a Russian Middle School by Islamic militants ended in bloody confusion, leaving as many as 380 people dead, approximately half of whom were children.

No span of land or sea is long enough to stretch thin the raw waves of pain and anguish that scream from Russia but reach our shores. For Americans, the grief we share with our former enemy comes at a time when we are bracing ourselves for the third anniversary of terrorist atrocities in our own country.

The past three years have not proven enough time to heal the wounds of September 11, 2001, when terrorists turned our airplanes against us and used them as missiles to target the Twin Towers of the World Trade Center, the Pentagon, and that wide, open field in rural Pennsylvania. These previous 36 months have, unfortunately, proven ample time to muddy our national unity with the worst that political debate has to offer.

The importance of this Saturday demands that we stop the noise of our differences and quietly, respectfully and appropriately honor those who were taken from us three Septembers ago.

Beyond this weekend, though, we must remember and examine the unexpected shock, anger, sadness and loss forced upon us three years ago, for it is this anniversary of September 11 that stands two months shy of our next presidential election.

It is an unfortunate reality, but the larger context of September 11 is unmistakably a political matter. The subject of the War on Terror is as polarizing as the unrelenting debate surrounding abortion, homosexual marriage, stem cell research or any other matter that, regrettably, divides us. Very few stand in the center in regard to what must be done to eradicate terrorism and secure global peace. Most people on either side remain convinced that their approach is absolutely correct.

Concerns about terrorism and our beliefs as to how to defeat such a scourge must be our top priority as we listen to President Bush and Senator Kerry in the weeks ahead. We need not abandon other pressing matters, particularly domestic ones pertaining to education and the economy, but it is imperative that the issue of terrorism leads the discussion and informs our decision on Election Day.

If the subject of our safety leads, then the other issues may follow. Those who disagree may want to heed the lessons of Russia, which learned last week, in a single hellish chapter in the epic struggle against terrorists, that without security, there is no education.

Letter to the Editor

How about a Whitefield Marketplace?

Dear Editor:

Isn't it a shame how many older homes and buildings are being razed instead of restored? Thankfully, we saved the Whitefield School. What a great looking building.

I'd love to see it painted in bright colors. Maybe the Arts Council could come up with some sketches. I'd love to see the ground floor be a warm and fragrant coffee shop and bakery, where you could linger with a newspaper or some friends. Somewhere comfortable. There could even be a restaurant on the ground floor that opened up to the outdoors for patio dining. I'll bet the Garden Club could do an awesome job of designing some gardens, with soft outdoor lighting.

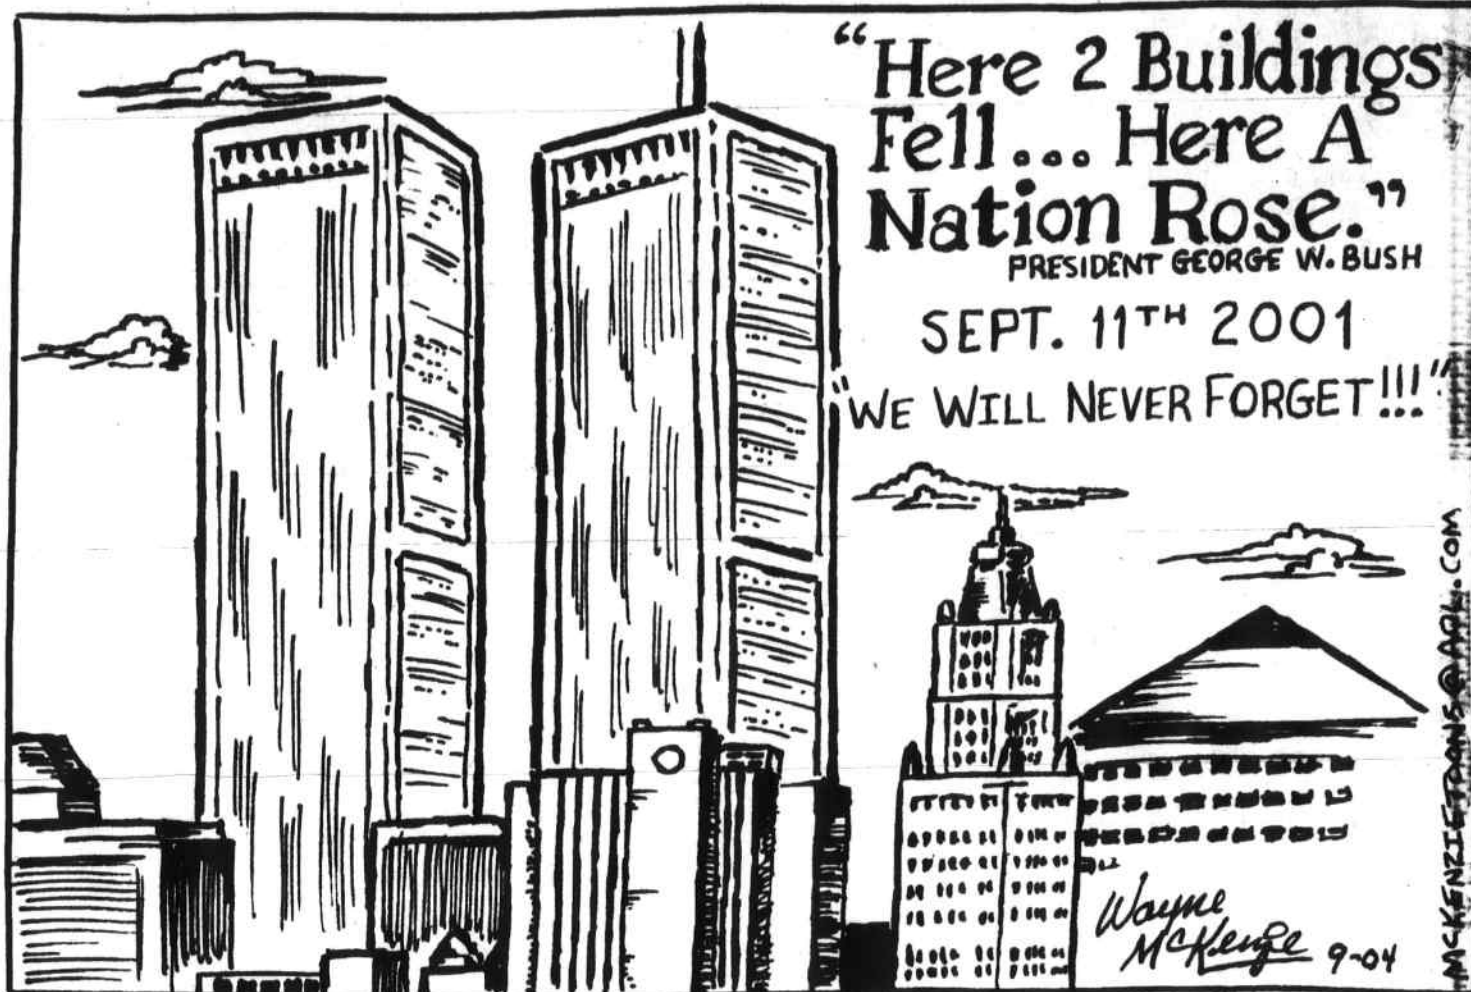

Upstairs, I'd love to see an array of shops that sell the kind of creative, unique and homemade items you used to be able to find at places like Women's Industrial Union on Boylston Street. You know the kind I mean. Nothing too fancy. They had everything from homemade baby clothes to yarns and fabrics to fine paper and stationary. I'd love a shop or two like they have in the North End, with cheeses and coffees and pungent olives in wooden barrels.

In the summer and fall, just about this time of year, wouldn't it be great if there were a farmer's market at the Whitefield, where you could buy locally grown fruits and vegetables, plants and flowers?

The town of Wilmington owns the Whitefield. I don't know what public/private partnerships are needed, or what grants are available to make this kind of thing happen, but maybe the Historical Society does.

We could call it the Whitefield Marketplace, and it could be a destination spot where people gather and meet. So many people I've talked to have liked this idea that it would be great if we could make it happen.

Sincerely,
Debra Russo

Wilmington and The Great Depression

... as remembered by John F. Maguire

Chapter 8 My Best Friend

In Chapter 2 of this series, I mentioned that one of the first persons I met after arriving in town, was a kid by the name of Arthur Fish. Art and I hit it off well and we became best friends during our time in Wilmington and this friendship has lasted up to the present time. Arthur now lives with his wife, Helen, in California after having spent an active and successful life, mostly in the insurance business.

Back in 1932, Arthur lived on Burlington Avenue in a small one-family home rented from the Roberts family who lived close by. The Roberts family owned several homes in the immediate area that they rented to others. At the time the Roberts family lived in a large mansion on the other side of the street that still stands today.

As our friendship developed, Arthur and I were at each other's homes almost on a daily basis. Whenever I went to Arthur's house, I was greeted by his mother, Emma Fish. She was one of the finest, kindest persons I ever met in my life. She always had a smile and a friendly greeting for me and made me feel welcome. His father, on the other hand, Howard Fish, was a reserved man who worked as an engineer for the Boston & Maine Railroad. He had a different personality and you didn't quite know where you stood with him or how to take him, although I never had a problem with him. He appeared to be a no-nonsense, quiet, serious, hard-working man.

Arthur had three brothers, Charlie, Bob and Freddy, who were all older than he was. They were all good fellows, but because of the age differential, I never got too close to any of them. Charlie originally worked for the First National Stores, but later on became a locomotive engineer like his father. Bob earned his living as a medical specialties salesman. Both Charlie and Bob married and had families, and, both passed away years ago. Fred, who was next in line to Arthur, enjoyed great success in the U.S. Army where he rose to the rank of Major. I believe he stayed in after the war and made a career of it. Fred finally settled in California and married. Fred passed away within the last year.

After our family moved back to Arlington in 1937, Arthur and I kept up our friendship and met frequently until World War II came along. Arthur went into the Army where he served as a sergeant in the Pacific, until the end of the war. Arthur married Helen McManus following his discharge. Ironically, shortly after their marriage, Arthur was called back by the Reserves and compelled to serve in the Korean Conflict.

Helen McManus was a Wilmington native and grew up in the family home on Central Street. She was one of 8 children; 4 girls and 4 boys. Arthur likes to tell the story of how he Wilmington but was denied by the town officials.

At one time, Arthur had occasion to make some repairs to the family home. At the request of his mother, he was installing a sink in the bathroom and had to open up the met the love of his life. One day he went into Liggett's Drug Store, at Church and Main Streets. Suddenly he became aware of this beautiful girl working behind the counter. Although she was a town resident, he had never noticed her before. Arthur took one look and was immediately smitten by this young girl's vivaciousness, looks, manner and personality. Although Arthur was no shrinking violet when it came to the opposite sex, he instinctively knew he had found the love of his life. They dated, their romance flourished, and they were married shortly thereafter. I was an usher at their wedding in St. Thomas' Church. They've already celebrated their fiftieth and are rapidly approaching their sixtieth anniversary.

Returning to the house where Arthur grew up, 134 Burlington Avenue, this past weekend Arthur related to me a few interesting stories that might interest certain of our readers. That particular house was originally constructed in 1735. Before Mr. Roberts rented the house to the Fish family, he and his wife lived there. They began a small candy business, making candy on the premises and selling the product to town residents. The business flourished and Mr. Roberts expanded to a factory in Boston. At one point he approached the Town Fathers and proposed building a factory near the center of wall. Instead of finding 2" X 4" studding, he found small oak saplings which had been used in the construction of the house. His interest piqued, he decided to check further, going up to the rafters and discovered hand-hewed beams which had been held together by wooden pegs and these had been subsequently reinforced with hand-made horse-shoe nails. This residence, presently numbered 134 Burlington Avenue, has to be one of the oldest structures in the town.

One final anecdote, also from Arthur. Prior to the time we live in the town, The Ford Motor Company approached the powers that be, as Fred Roberts had done, and wanted permission to erect an automobile assembly plant near the intersection of Middlesex Avenue and Main Street, probably where the old Railroad Round House used to be located. They were denied permission to put up the plant. Had it been allowed, with the Depression Years just ahead, such a plant would have had a profound affect on the townspeople and the economy of the town.

EDITOR'S NOTE. Attentive readers may have noticed that this chapter has been published out of sequence, for the series jumped from Chapter 7 to 9 in the Town Crier's last two editions. We apologize for the error.

John F. Maguire, a retired attorney who currently resides in Wayland, lived in Wilmington for five years during the Great Depression. The final chapter of this series, titled "Thank You Wilmington," will appear in next week's edition of the Town Crier.

Representative James R. Miceli announces his bid for re-election

The following has been submitted to the Town Crier for publication by the office of Representative Miceli and has been printed verbatim. The publication is in accordance with the Crier's invitation for all candidates to submit one press release prior to a primary or election.

Representative James R. Miceli announces his bid for re-election for the office of State Representative for the 19th Middlesex district. He represents precincts 1, 2 and 4 in the Town of Wilmington and precincts 1, 1A, 2, 2A, 4, and 4A in Tewksbury. The representative currently serves as the Vice of the House Committee on Rules and has also served on the Committee on Ways and Means, Committee on Banks, Vice Chairman of the House Committee on Post Audit and Chairman of the House Committee on Personnel and Administration. Prior to his election as state representative, Miceli served on the Wilmington Board of Selectmen and the Wilmington Planning Board.

Miceli is known in both communities for his leadership on numerous issues including the environment, education, education, elder affairs and veterans' affairs. He worked with the residents of Tewksbury NS Governor Cellucci to have Rocco's Landfill designated as a Superfund site. He has also attended and sponsored many meetings in Wilmington regarding the problems with Olin, Raffi and Swanson, the Maple Meadow Landfill, and many other environmental concerns. He requested that the Department of Public Health conduct a public health study on the Childhood Cancer rates in Wilmington and a study on the effects Rocco's landfill may have had in the Town of Tewksbury.

Representative Miceli has also advocated for funding for veterans' homes and benefits. He has submitted testimony to the C.A.R.E.S. commission opposing their recommendation to eliminate services at the Bedford VA and the Lowell Outpatient Clinic. His position was that the inpatient services, the Alzheimer's clinic, and that of the Edith Rogers Hospital in Bedford provide vital services to those who have laid their lives on the line for our country. The services provided at the Lowell Outpatient Clinic are critical to the health of veterans in the Greater Lowell Area. He also co-sponsored legislation amending the definition of a veteran which expanded benefits to include more of the men and women that served the country.

The representative also worked with House and Senate leaders to create and to expand the Prescription Advantage program. He worked to ensure that this year's budget included the funding for this program so that the elderly and disabled will be able to afford life saving prescriptions. He also voted this year to repeal the Medicaid Asset Recovery program and to override the Governor's veto of this section. This vote affects not only the elders, but also their families. It protects their homes and other important assets.

The Legislature with Miceli's assistance also made strides relative to education programs. This past session the legislature provided a total of 8 billion dollars in state funds for Chapter 70, the Special Education Circuit breaker, and the School Building Assistance program. Miceli also advocated for kindergarten funding and early literacy programs, and worked with the legislature to distribute $64.4 million for regional school transportation services, and directed $1.5 billion to the state's colleges and universities to fund such initiatives as collective bargaining agreements and workforce development grants.

Massachusetts has lost almost 170,000 jobs since 2001. Miceli worked with his colleagues to address this massive problem. The legislature passed the economic stimulus package which will create high-paying knowledge based jobs and generate millions in revenue.

Representative Miceli has remained active in both Tewksbury and Wilmington. Representative Miceli was very successful in obtaining funding for some local projects. This is particularly noteworthy because of the tight fiscal constraints in the Commonwealth the past few years.

The representative was able to insert $103,000 for repairs to the West Street Schoolhouse in the House FY 05 annual budget. He also worked with the Transportation Conference Committee to ensure that money was included in the Conference Committee report for lights at the intersection of Glen Rd. and Rt. 62.

In addition to obtaining the funding for Rocco's handicapped fishing pier, Miceli worked closely with the Department of Fisheries and Wildlife Public Access Board, the Department of Environmental Protection, and local officials and was able to get Rocco's Handicapped Fishing Pier out to bid.

Wilmington passed an article through the Annual Town Meeting last year that requested a change to the town charter that requires the board of Selectmen to call for a special election in the case of a vacancy on the Board of Selectmen instead of an interim appointment. Miceli filed the legislation as a home rule petition and guided the bill through the legislative process, included overriding the governor's veto.

The representative was able to secure for the Town of Tewksbury budget amendment protecting all of the state land in Tewksbury from development and a conservation restriction for over 400 acres of hospital land. Preservation of the state land in Tewksbury has always been a top priority for Miceli throughout his entire legislative career. He is credited with protecting the state land from many developments, as well as transferring many acres of the land to the Town of Tewksbury for municipal and recreational purposes.

In the FY 05 budget, Miceli was able to include language that directs the Massachusetts Highway Department to design and install traffic lights at the intersection of Salem and South Streets. This item was also included in the Transportation Bond Bill.

Representative Miceli filed legislation naming the former administration building at Tewksbury Hospital in honor of Richard Morris. Dick is an outstanding individual who dedicated his life to public service. He is a retired firefighter and former Chairman of the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen. He is the current Chairman of the Tewksbury Hospital Board of Trustees, and has served in that capacity for many years.

Representative Jim Miceli is most proud of the constituent services his office has rendered to the people of his district. He has also kept his promises to bring government closer to the people, with his monthly office hours in both towns. He also holds an Annual Town Meeting in both towns and distributes a questionnaire at both Annual Town Meetings.

Please consider voting for Representative Miceli in both the State Primary on September 14 and the General Election in November.

Cirignano introduces himself to 21st District

The following has been submitted to the Town Crier for publication by John Cirignano and has been printed verbatim. The publication is in accordance with the Crier's invitation for all candidates to submit one press release prior to a primary or election.

I thank the Editor of this newspaper for affording me the opportunity to talk directly to the voters of the 21st District.

The greatest assets to a true candidate for the people are informed voters. Let me introduce myself and begin to share my ideas on how I can best serve you, the people, in my District.

In addition, I challenge the incumbent to three debates, one in each town that I will serve.

I was born in South Boston, graduated from Boston Latin School, and received a dual degree in Physics and Mathematics from Tufts University, a Masters in Physics from Northeastern University, and an MBA (Honors) from Boston University.

My wife Florence and I have lived in Massachusetts for over 40 years, and currently reside in Bedford, MA. We have four married children and six grandchildren with a seventh on the way.

My first full time jobs included work at both the MIT Instrumentation Laboratory (now called Charles Stark Draper Laboratory) and at Raytheon on the Apollo, Poseidon Missile, Patriot Missile, and Deep Submergence Research Vehicle (DSRV) Programs. I received a commendation from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, August 15, 1969 on occasion of 1st manned landing on the moon.

As a Scoutmaster in Winchester, MA, I was elected to the Order of the Arrow.

After traveling 100% in my last years at IBM, I retired from IBM two years ago as a Certified Executive Project Manager. My responsibilities at IBM included troubleshooting multimillion dollar projects, and then creating and executing fixit plans. Since retiring, I established my own consulting firm, Patriots Technology Consulting, and, as an Adjunct Professor at Boston University, I have been teaching Program and Project Management both domestically and internationally.

After retiring, I became incensed watching the TV coverage of the Massachusetts House votes on the burgeoning State budget.

This stimulated me to find out what I could do to change the status quo. Finding my State Representative unresponsive to his constituents, I decided that I needed to do more than to write letters. This resulted in my running for State Representative to become part of the solution by replacing what I found to be an incumbent who was, and still is, part of the problem.

This year, I learned that over 99 % of Governor Romney's vetoes are being overruled by only one to three votes, in particular by the incumbent's vote.

I intend to be one of those Legislators who will give the veto power back to the Governor.

As part of Governor Romney's Reform Team, I will work towards:

- o Eliminating wasteful State spending!
- o Reducing State personal & business taxes!
- o Increasing local aid!
- o Supporting traditional marriage! - Let the people vote!

Fortunately, Governor Romney's initiative to fix the broken School Building Assistance Program has just been realized, but there is much more to be done.

You might ask: "Why doesn't the incumbent support Governor Romney's reforms?" Voters need to know the basic principles upon which their Representative will base his/her votes.

My principles are:

1. Each citizen of Bedford, Burlington, and Wilmington (Precinct 3) is both my employer and my customer!

I will lead the fight to bring an attitude of customer service to the Massachusetts House.

When a bill comes up for a vote, I will always ask, "How does this bill serve my customers?"

2. I will seek out priority issues and needs of the community, and sponsor legislation to address those issues and needs.

3. I will support all legally accepted voter petitions, even if I personally disagree with a petition.

If the voters have expressed a legal desire to vote on an issue by signing a petition, then they have a right to vote on that issue.

Recently, many State Representatives voted to deny legal voter requests to place certain petitions on the ballot.

No one in the Legislature has a right to deny voters their legal right to vote.

4. I have been endorsed by the Citizens for Limited Taxation's 2 1/2 Political Action Committee, and will not vote for any new tax unless it is balanced by an equal or greater reduction in other taxes.

I am very excited to launch my campaign to represent the citizens of the 21st Middlesex District, and look forward to giving the District true representation on Beacon Hill.

If you would like to learn more about my campaign, the issues I support, and how you can get involved, please visit my web site, Cirignano.org.

If you agree with my principles and stands on issues, please vote for me in the September 14th Primary, and in the November 2nd General Election.

Thank you.

GETTING A NEEDED BOOST

Recent research shows that the use of belt-positioning booster seats by children in automobiles cuts the risk of injury in children ages 4 - 7 by almost 60% compared with using seat belts alone. In particular, booster seats appear to sharply reduce the risk of injuries to the abdomen and spine. These benefits aside, the study shows that the use of booster seats virtually eliminates "seat belt syndrome," which involves serious internal injury due to improperly positioned seat belts. Booster seats elevate children so the vehicle's lap or shoulder belts fit them properly. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration recommends that children between the ages of 4 and 8 use a booster seat until they are 57 inches tall. Do the children traveling in your car have the proper restraints? Common sense prevails when considering your child's safety.

At our office you will receive a prompt response to your requests for policy changes, additional coverage, or inquiries concerning a claim. Customer satisfaction is our top priority. When you are a client, you can expect to receive a fair and equitable settlement to your claim as quickly as possible. Call us at 978-657-7200 for more information or to schedule an appointment. You'll Like the Way We do Business.™

NOTE: Children in belt-positioning booster seats are also more likely to sit in the back seats of vehicles, which are safer than the front.

PAYING TRIBUTE. Gregory Erickson, of Wilmington, paid tribute to his fellow Vietnam Veterans at the memorial in Worcester that was the destination of a motorcycle run in which he participated in late August. The photo was provided by Erickson through the website for Nam Knights at www.mhoa.com/namknights.

Motorcycle run to Worcester's Vietnam Memorial a success

Event was organized by Wilmington Heath Director Greg Erickson

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Gregory Erickson, of Wilmington, had wanted to have an official motorcycle run to Worcester's Vietnam Veterans Memorial since its dedication several years ago. Thanks to Erickson, on August 28, 2004, Rolling Thunder New England Ride for Freedom 1 became a reality.

Erickson has been riding motorcycles since he was a kid. He rides Harley Davidsons now, but that wasn't always the case.

"I rode anything that would roll," Erickson jokes. "I didn't get my first Harley until the 1990's."

Erickson, Wilmington's Director of Health since 1985, is also a veteran of the Vietnam War. He joined the Marines in 1966 and served 14 months between 1968 and 1969 in Vietnam at Marble Mountain Air Facility (MAG-16).

In early 2000 Erickson began a search that would lead him to Nam Knights.

"I wanted to go to the (Vietnam Memorial) Wall in Washington, DC on a motorcycle with fellow veterans," Erickson says.

Eventually, his search led Nam Knights to him. They had heard that he was looking for a veterans organization and gave him a call.

The Nam Knights were formed in 1989 by a small group of Harley-riding combat veterans of the Vietnam War who were also police officers. Founder Jack Quigley, now retired from the position of Undersheriff of the Bergen County Sheriff's Department in New Jersey, served in Vietnam as a platoon sergeant with the 11th Motor Transportation Battalion, First Marine Division.

The Nam Knights website quotes Quigley as saying, "The mission of the Nam Knights is to honor the memory of American Veterans and Police Officers who have lost their lives in the line of duty, to assist Veterans and Police Officers in their time of need, and to promote community awareness through sponsorship and participation in various community and fund-raising events."

The Nam Knights has grown to 19 chapters in eight states, including two in Massachusetts, and boasts many hundreds of members consisting of veterans of all eras, law enforcement personnel, and even a few "special and dedicated civilians."

Erickson joined the New Hampshire chapter in early 2000 and went on to create a Massachusetts chapter in 2001.

This year Erickson's goal was to organize a run to Worcester's Vietnam Veterans Memorial. He contacted Rolling Thunder for official sanctioning and permission to use the Rolling Thunder name in the run. Rolling Thunder is a national motorcycle organization formed in 1987 to increase public awareness of POW-MIA issues. Participants of Rolling Thunder runs to the Wall in Washington, DC number in the thousands every year.

This year's first annual Rolling Thunder New England Ride for Freedom began at the Boston Harley Davidson in Revere. The run took bikers along back roads through Cambridge and all the way to Worcester. Each town along the way had been notified by a Rolling Thunder representative and both Massachusetts Nam Knights chapters worked together to set up routes and act as road guards.

A couple of hours into the run, the bikers were in Green Hill Park and at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial for ceremonies, including the presentation of wreaths, one from Nam Knights and one from Rolling Thunder. Bagpipes played while the Knights hung dog tags from a wooden post in memory of their fallen comrades and stuck white wooden crosses marked with the different wars in the ground nearby.

The ceremonies were followed by a trip to the Sutton Rod and Gun Club for the Nam Knights' annual picnic.

Erickson was very satisfied with the day's events, especially since it was an inaugural effort. A hundred or so motorcyclists participated in the run. He originally anticipated 400, but the event was held on the same weekend as Nelson's Ride, an extremely well attended motorcycle event every year in Ipswich.

"All in all, it was a real good first run," Erickson says. For additional information regarding Nam Knights, visit www.mhoa.com/namknights/

understands what's important to families in our district...and it shows.

He knows what to do to create jobs' to increase local aid to our communities and to give taxpayers a needed break.

- Worked hard to secure increases in Local Aid assistance for Tewksbury & Wilmington and funding for Sewer rate relief, local road and bridge projects, and snow removal.
- Helped establish a Fiscal Policy which will attract and keep companies in Massachusetts and for the first time obligates them to create jobs in this state

He shares our concern about education and the need to give our children the skills and training they need to succeed.

- Worked to secure Education Reform Funding for initiatives in our local schools and increase funding for our State's Higher Education Institutions. Inserted language in state budget mandating 70% state re-imbursement for Wynn School, saving taxpayers millions of dollars.
- Fought to get Tuition Tax Credits and to enhance funding for scholarships and no-interest loan assistance for working families faced with high college costs.
- Supported increased funding for early childhood education, adult basic education, job training initiatives and adult literacy programs.
- Helped create the Education Technology Board which will assist our communities in funding computerization and technology advances in our schools.

He understands our worry about health care and public safety...and he is doing something about it.

- Worked hard for Non-Group Insurance reform to protect people from losing coverage because of job change, age or pre-existing conditions.
- Voted to increase access to health insurance.
- Supported H.M.O. Reform.
- Voted to increase access to prescription drugs.
- Supported strengthening Domestic Violence Prevention Programs.
- Helped secure increased funding for Community Policing initiatives and additional resources targeted at juvenile offenders. He also fought for full funding of the Quinn Bill which helps communities pay incentives to police officers who pursue higher education.

Tewksbury's Sewer Construction Program

Traffic updates provided through September 17

TEWKSBURY - Traffic updates have been provided to residents of Tewksbury from Town Engineer Lisa DeMeo in regard to the Sewer Construction program.

Until Friday, September 10, Shawsheen Street will be open from Main to East Street, with occasional one-lane traffic. Idlewild Street will be partially closed during work hours. Also partially closed during this period will be Maple Street, from Lowe Street to East Street; Martha Avenue, during work hours; and Ballard Street, from Shawsheen Street to Lowe Street. One-lane traffic is allowed on Carleton Street.

Between Monday, September 13, and Friday, September 17, Shawsheen Street will again be open from Main to East, with occasional one-lane traffic. Idlewild Street will again be closed during work hours, with crews moving on to Valley when the work there is finished. Maple Street, from Lowe to East, will also be partially closed. Martha Avenue will be partially closed during work hours. Ballard Street will be partially closed from Shawsheen to Lowe. One-lane traffic will be allowed on Carleton Street.

The State Primary will be held on Tuesday, September 14. Contractors have been instructed to keep all delays to a minimum.

"Please be patient with them," DeMeo says. "They will move out of the way quickly."

Raymond P. Shaw, Jr. honored

TEWKSBURY - Finance Committee Chairman Raymond P. Shaw Jr. retired at the end of August after more than ten years of service.

Mr. Shaw, left in the photo above, was honored at a reception on Wednesday, August 25th, 2004, held at the Tewksbury Country Club. Mr. Shaw was given a citation by State Representative Barry R. Finegold (D-Andover), commending him for his dedication and years of service.

"This was a small way of thanking a man who has devoted more than a decade to serving the Tewksbury community," said Rep. Finegold, right in the photo above.

Also in attendance were Tewksbury Board of Selectman members Jerome Selissen and Joseph Gill. The event marked the end of Mr. Shaw's great career with the Tewksbury Finance Committee.

WCTV to hold Membership Week

If you've ever considered having a television show of your own, or are just interested in how the media works, Wilmington Community Television invites you to join them for Membership Week.

A variety of special events are planned for the week of September 27-30, 2004 to give Wilmington viewers a sampling of what Community Television is all about. In addition to tours of the Middlesex Ave Facility, WCTV invites you to meet volunteer producers and find out what draws them to sharing their talents through television.

Membership Week activities will include a Youth night on Monday night, where youths grades 5 through 12 will produce a live production from 7 to 8 pm. A limited number of tickets are available for audience participation. Tuesday night will be dedicated to WCTV's various sports programs, with an opportunity to meet local sports programming hosts. Wednesday night will be "Organization Night", where local non-profit groups will be given air time to promote their organization. Thursday night will be dedicated to WCTV's Golden Apple Awards, an evening of video awards designed to recognize those special productions created at and aired on WCTV.

If any resident or local businessperson has ever thought about exploring community television resources, this is a perfect time. Special rates are being offered for anyone becoming a first time member during Membership Week.

Seniors and Students joining for the first time can join for $5 for the year. Individual rates are $10, family memberships are $20. Organization memberships are also available for $50 and includes full membership for up to 4 people. A membership includes access to all of the classes that WCTV offers, facilities, equipment, and experienced staff assistance.

For more information about Wilmington Community Television Membership Week, becoming a member, or signing up for Organization Night or Youth Night Tickets, call WCTV at 978-657-4066.

THE NORTH READING GARDEN CLUB invites you to stop and smell the flowers at its annual plant sale, scheduled for later this month.

Tewksbury Memorial High School students excel in AP tests

The Educational Testing Services, which sponsors the Advanced Placement Program examinations, has informed Dr. Gerald Ferris as Principal of Tewksbury Memorial High School of the results of the AP exams taken last spring by members of the junior and senior classes.

Dr. Ferris was very pleased by the results of the 16 juniors/seniors in the United States AP History test, the 21 junior/seniors in the AP Biology exam, the 16 juniors/seniors in the English Literature/Composition test, the 22 juniors/seniors in the AP Calculus test, and the 1 senior in the Physics test.

Sixteen out of sixteen students passed the AP United States History Exam. Six received highest score of "5", six received the second best score of "4", and four received the passing score of "3".

Eighteen out of the twenty-one students passed the AP Biology exam. Seven received the highest score of "5", six received the second highest score of "4", five received the score of "3" for college academic credit. Three received the score of "2" which is not high enough to receive college credit.

Fifteen out of the sixteen students passed the English/Composition exam. Three received the highest score of "5", six received the second best score of "4" and six received the passing score of "3". One student received a score of "2" which is not high enough to receive college credit.

Twenty students out of twenty-two passed the AP Calculus exam. Eleven received the highest score of "5", six received the next best score of "4", and three received a score of "3" for college credit. Two students obtained a score of "2" which is not high enough to receive college credit.

One senior received a passing score of "4" on the AP Physics exam.

Dr. Ferris states that these achievements in the AP test, certainly are connected to the dedication and professionalism of all our teachers, but especially Ms. Nadine Sutliff, Ms. Jennifer Brooks, Mr. Robert Brigida, Mr. James Pringle, and Mr. Ed Cremins of the Tewksbury Memorial High School staff.

Best-selling author to visit Tewksbury Public Library

TEWKSBURY - Her stories are popular and she was even awarded the New England Bookseller Award for Fiction in 2003. Now join fellow fans for a chance to see best-selling author Jodi Picoult in person at the Tewksbury Public Library!

Picoult will be speaking about her work and signing books in the Library's main meeting room on Wednesday, October 6 at 7 p.m. Tickets are required for the event, but they are free. They can be picked up anytime the Library is open at the Reference Desk located on the second floor.

Long Island born-and-raised Jodi Picoult is the author of eleven novels, her latest one being My Sister's Keeper published this year. The solid core of family and the knotty tangle of relationships are themes that continue to appear in her books. She studied creative writing with Mary Morris while attending school at Princeton. She performed a series of different writing jobs following her graduation: technical writer for a Wall Street brokerage firm, copywriter at an ad agency, editor at a textbook publisher, and 8th grade English teacher - before deciding to enter Harvard to pursue a master's in education. She married Tim Van Leer, whom she had known at Princeton, and it was while she was pregnant with her first child that she wrote her first novel, Songs of the Humpback Whale. Now, she balances motherhood and her writing career in Hanover, New Hampshire, where she lives with Tim, their three children, a dog, a rabbit, two Jersey calves, and the occasional Holstein.

If you simply can't get enough of Picoult, join the Adult Book Discussion Group to discuss her novel Mercy on Tuesday, September 28 at 7 p.m. at Tewksbury Public Library. Mercy follows the path of two cousins driven to extremes by the power of love. One helps his terminally ill wife commit suicide at her request; the other becomes involved in an affair with his wife's assistant. The story raises the question, "What would you do for someone you love?" Copies of the book can be requested at the Library.

WILMINGTON - This year, Janet Wolfe from Wilmington will be raising funds for cancer research simply by walking. Join your neighbor in the fight against cancer by registering for the 16th annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk, presented by Hyundai Motor America, to be held on Sunday, Sept. 19.

Wolfe will join more than 6,500 participants, who are expected to raise $4.75 million for cancer research and care for children and adults at Dana-Faber Cancer Institute. Over the past 15 years, walkers and their supporters have contributed more than $31 million to Dana-Faber. This funding supports cutting edge cancer research to find cures and better treatments for all forms of the disease. It also provides special services and assist with cost of patient care and treatment.

Participants can register with a team or as an individual; each participant age 13 and older must raise a minimum of $200. Participants age 12 and younger must raise a minimum of $100. Pacesetters, those who raise $750 or more, receive special recognition from the Jimmy Fund, and are invited to a celebration at the start of the next Walk session. Participants are encouraged to form teams and walk in honor of those who have been affected by cancer.

"The walk gives people the opportunity to join a community of friends and families to support cancer research while honoring everyone who is or has been directly affected by the disease," says Ed Wiederhold, director of the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk.

The Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk is the only event, other than the Boston Marathon itself that is sanctioned by the Boston Athletic Association to use the historic 26.2 mile route from Hopkinton to Boston. Walkers can choose from two different routes: 26.2 mile from Hopkinton, 7 a.m.; or 13.1 miles from Wellesley 11 a.m. Patients and their families can follow the 3-mile route that begins at the Harvard Medical School Quad, at 2 p.m. All walkers finish at the Copley Square finish line.

Be a Hero. Walk or support a walker. To register, or make financial contributions, visit www.jimmyfundwalk.org. Contributions can also be mailed to: Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk, 10 Brookline Place West, 6th Floor Brookline, MA 02445. For more information, call (866) JFW HERO.

Tarr appointed to early childhood education task force

Senate President Robert Travaglini has appointed Senate Minority Whip Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) to a newly developed advisory committee charged with recommending the basis for a new Department of Early Childhood Education and Care.

Tarr will serve with four other Senators on the task force, which will make recommendations to the Joint Education, Arts and Humanities Committee on the make-up of the new department.

The committee will explore the foundational and organizational elements that will allow the state to build a first-rate early education and care system that provides every 3 to 5 year old preschool child access to a high quality early education and care program.

The Department of Early Childhood Education and Care will meet professionally accepted standards, including, but not limited to, the early childhood program standards and guidelines for learning experiences established by the Board of Education. These services will be delivered by well-trained early educators in a variety of public and private settings under the provisions of chapter 15D. The department will work in conjunction with special education services offered by the Department of Education and early intervention services offered by the Department of Public Health.

"This task force has an important assignment for the future of our state, and I appreciate the opportunity to be a part of it," said Tarr. "We need to identify and respond effectively to the challenges of strengthening and advancing our system of public and private early education. Our students and our future deserve a commitment to success. This committee is charged with an awesome responsibility and I am honored to have the opportunity to work with such well qualified, legislators and early childhood representatives at this capacity."

Continued Tarr, "I am proud that Massachusetts has taken this important step toward investing in the success of our youngest citizens."

Tarr's appointment is among the initial steps in forming the committee, which will be comprised of representatives from many sectors. They include five members of the House, four members of the Senate and representative of the following organizations:

Massachusetts Association of Community Partnerships for Children; Massachusetts Association of Day Care Administrators;

Massachusetts Head Start Association;
Massachusetts Child Care Resource and Referral Agencies Network;
Massachusetts Association of Early Childhood Teacher Educators;

Massachusetts Association for the Education of Young Children;
Massachusetts Independent Child Care Organization;
Strategies for Children, and the Mass Association of School Committees.

Two additional members will be appointed by the advisory committee co-chairs, one of whom shall be a representative of a family child care system and one of whom will represent private not for profit centers. Members of the advisory committee shall have expertise and demonstrated interest in early education and care services and a commitment to maximizing family choice by preserving a mixed system of high-quality public and private programs.

Fedorchuk came up with the idea of naming the squadron's field after Ogonowski a year and a half ago, when he began to notice that a number of areas used by the club had been dedicated to certain individuals. He received the blessing of Ogonowski's parents, met with legislators and got permission from the state hospital earlier this summer to dedicate a portion of its land to his friend.

Fedorchuk credits Ron Quattrochi, the president of the 495th Squadron, and Quattrochi's Board of Directors with giving him the go-ahead to pursue the dedication of the field in Ogonowski's honor.

"Ron Quattrochi and his Board of Directors gave me all the help I needed," Fedorchuk says. They were very enthusiastic about naming the field after John.

While this September 11 promises a celebration of the life Ogonowski lived, the memories of the same day three years ago will certainly course throughout the proceedings.

"When I heard that it was John on that plane that hit the North Tower, I was shocked," Fedorchuk says. "Once that shock wore off, I tried to put myself in the position he was in. It must have been so traumatic that it defies description to say what went on in his cockpit."

For Fedorchuk, though, one thing about the tragedy of American Airlines Flight 11 was certain.

"I'm sure that John was captain of that ship," he says. "I know that nobody, and I mean nobody, took over that airplane without a fight."

ing the number of tons of waste collected by the contractually agreed upon tonnage rate. The contract with Acme did not include service for commercial properties.

The Tyngsborough and State Police Departments assigned to the Attorney General's Office the surveillance of Acme trucks over a six-month period. During this surveillance, Acme trucks were observed combining commercial waste with Tyngsborough's residential waste.

According to the Attorney General's Office, from December 2001 through January 2003, Acme inflated the solid waste tonnage fees billed to Tyngsborough by charging for the combined commercial and residential tonnage.

reportedly frequently steals the vehicle and uses it for several days before abandoning it for the next one he takes.

Williams and Harmison were detained at Shaw's Supermarket in East Boston last week, following a report that they were shopping inside the store. Two additional stolen credit cards were found hidden in the ladies' room of the supermarket prior to Harmison's detainment. According to Neville, Boston authorities have indicated that they intend to summons both suspects into court on charges of forgery and uttering a worthless/stolen credit card.

Neville says that he is frustrated that the Wilmington Police Department remains a step behind in catching Williams in the act this time.

"Our 12-to-8 shift has narrowly missed him a couple of times in the past two weeks, but he always seems to have his 'drop car' tucked onto a nearby side street, where he is prepared to make his getaway," Neville says.

Neville reminds residents to lock their car doors and report any incidents of suspicious behavior that is seen or heard late at night. The key, he says, is to contact the police department immediately.

"Call us before you scare the individual away," Neville says. "We've gotten calls from residents who were aware that something was happening in their driveway, but they would yell at the suspect or chase him away, so we'd be moments behind him by the time we get there."

According to Neville, Williams does not have a documented history of violence.

"He doesn't fight," Neville says. "He runs away."

Neville says that this suspect has a known history of walking through back yards and along railroad tracks when searching for cars to steal from.

According to Neville, local authorities are still analyzing evidence to determine if they can "put Williams in a car in Wilmington."

"Until then, the local police will have to rely on feeding the information to the Boston Police, who can charge the suspects with the credit card offenses in Boston," Neville says.

Anyone with information that could lead to the apprehension of Williams is urged to call the Wilmington Police Department at 978-658-5071.

We have chased this guy on foot and by car," Neville says. "We know who he is, but we have not had the opportunity to get our hands on him."

Man charged with sexual assault

Wilmington youth arrived at the designated meeting place, his name was called by the perpetrator, who was sitting in a pick-up truck. After approaching the truck, the youth realized that Capiello was not 17 as he had claimed. The youth became nervous, but was pulled into the vehicle.

"The victim was then driven to a wooded area, where he was raped," King said. "Then the perpetrator drove back to the meeting location and warned him not to tell anyone about the incident."

The victim was scared and confused and did not share the story with anyone until finally confiding in a friend in July. His friend advised him to speak with police, but the victim was not yet willing to do so. The victim's friend contacted police and related the story. Wilmington authorities set up a meeting with the victim and got a detailed description of the perpetrator and the pick-up truck, but lacked a license plate and name.

King issued a bulletin to surrounding law enforcement and posted the message in the patrol room of Wilmington's Public Safety Building.

Officer Eric Palmer told King that he had stopped a pickup truck back in February that matched the description. According to Palmer, the individual in the pickup also matched the description of the man in King's bulletin. After pulling the log information for the license plate that indicated that Capiello may have been the man they sought, King checked with the Board of Probation and found that Capiello did indeed have a record of previous sex crimes.

A continued investigation resulted in the issuing of a search warrant for Capiello's residence at 96 Woburn Street in Andover. The search warrant was executed on September 3, during which a computer and various other items were taken into evidence. Capiello was also placed under arrest at that time. Wilmington police are awaiting a second search warrant that will authorize them to access information stored on Capiello's computer.

Capiello was bailed on a $10,000 cash bond, but he is now being held at Essex County Jail for a violation of probation. He was arraigned at Woburn District Court on Tuesday, September 7.

According to the Probations Department of Woburn District Court, Capiello was convicted in October of 2001 on charges of rape, breaking and entering in the daytime, and committing indecent assault and battery on a child. He received a two-and-a-half-year suspended sentence.

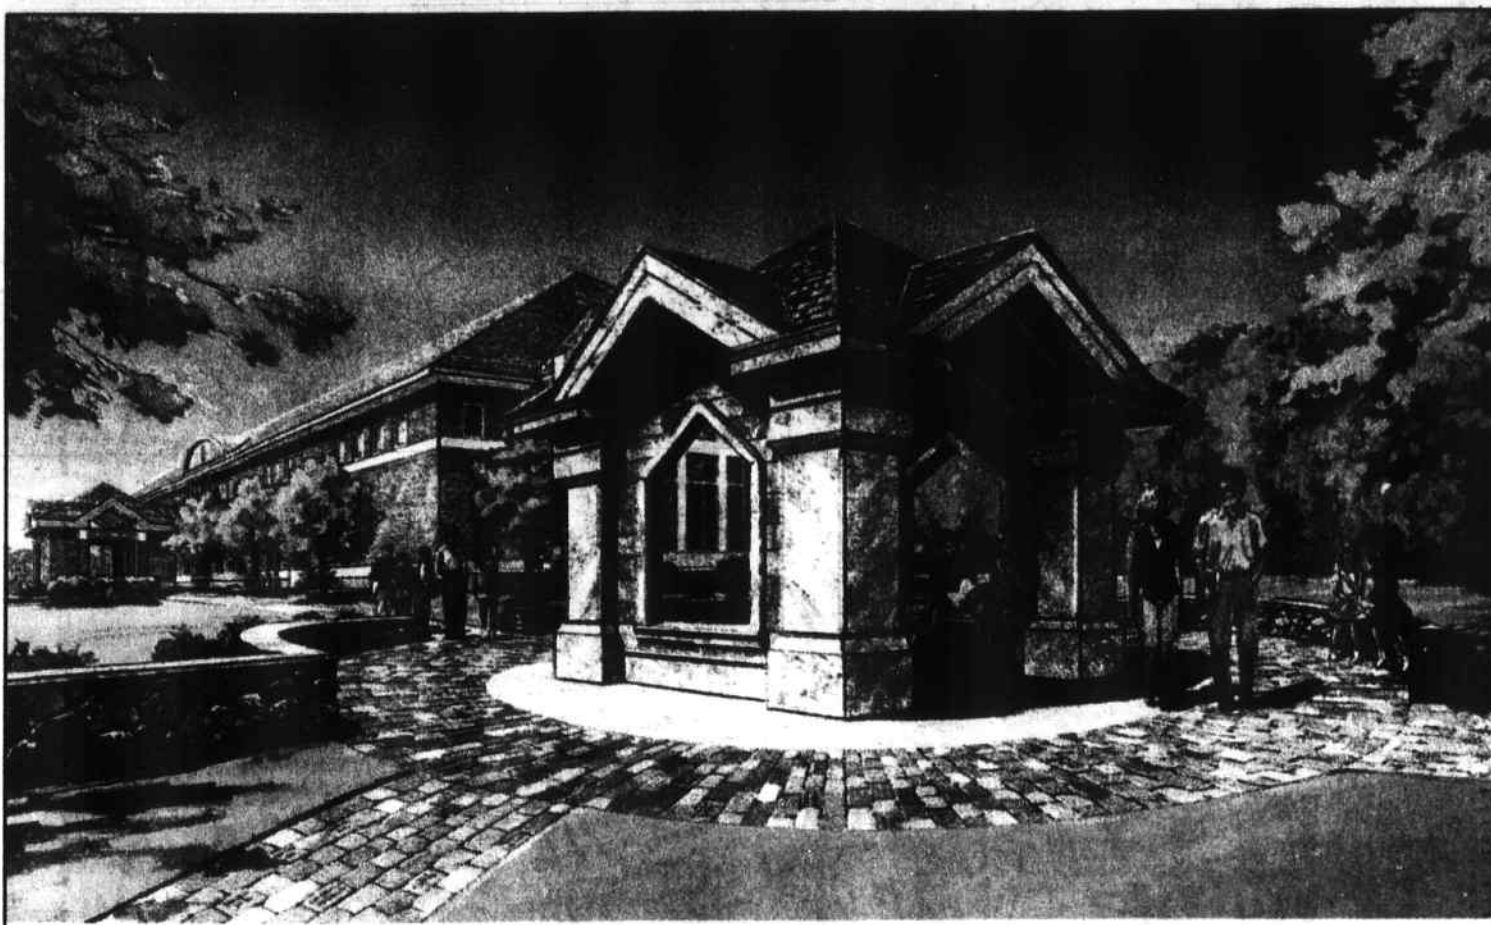

Capiello received a six-month suspended sentence and restitution in 2000 on charges of motor vehicle operator negligence.

Capiello's other convictions include a carjacking, committing an assault and battery with a deadly weapon and causing malicious destruction of property in 1995.

"It was a job well done by the Wilmington Police Department, and I can't say enough about the police work of Officer Eric Palmer who provided a tremendous break in the case," King said.

Palmer described Capiello's original traffic stop in February as routine.

"Sometimes certain people just stick out to you, even if you're not sure why," Palmer said. "I'm just glad it worked out."

FIRST LOOK: THE TEWKSBURY 9/11 MEMORIAL PAVILION

Drawing unveiled for 9/11 Memorial

Groundbreaking ceremony to take place on third anniversary of attacks

By STEPHEN BJORK

TEWKSBURY - A year's worth of the quiet work by two Tewksbury men will culminate this Saturday in the groundbreaking ceremony for Tewksbury September 11 Memorial.

The ceremony will be held on Saturday, September 11, at the Tewksbury Public Library at 9 a.m. The public is encouraged to attend and will be welcomed by Fred Simon of the Tewksbury 9-11 Committee. The Tewksbury Fire and Police Departments will be represented by their respective Colors and Honor Guards.

"The Star-Spangled Banner" will be performed by the Tewksbury Memorial High School Marching Band and the Pledge of Allegiance with be led by St. Williams Girl Scouts Troop 288 and Boy Scouts Troop 49.

Tewksbury residents Peter Alan Gay and Peter Hashem were both aboard American Airlines Flight 11 when terrorists flew the plane into the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001. The wives of those two men, Rita Hashem and Linda Gay, are scheduled to offer remarks during the ceremony, as will Mary MacDonald, the Chairman of the Tewksbury Public Library Board of Trustees. Selectman John Ryan will close the ceremony.

Last year, it occurred to Simon that Tewksbury had nothing solid or permanent to acknowledge the tragedies of September 11.

"The town had done great things to acknowledge the date, but nothing had been done on a permanent basis and I thought it was a shame," Simon said.

Simon dedicated his efforts towards erecting a fitting and appropriate memorial to all of the September 11 victims with a special focus on the two Tewksbury residents lost on that day.

Simon immediately contacted his friend John Ryan, who met the idea with tremendous enthusiasm. The two worked behind the scenes to first gain the blessings of Rita Hashem and Linda Gay, and then those of the Library Board of Trustees.

"We wanted to do something to honor both of them in a positive way," said Simon.

A number of locations were scouted for the memorial, with the library considered as an ideal location.

McDonald was amazed to find out that both Hashem and Gay, who didn't know each other, were avid readers who visited the library with their children regularly. Originally, some thought was given to the idea of doing something in the children's wing of the library, but that was soon abandoned for lack of space.

"(Simon and Ryan) were looking for a spot in town that was centrally located and easily accessible to the citizens," MacDonald said. "We explored a number of locations on the grounds and felt the existing cement pad was the best spot."

The Board of Library Trustees gave tentative approval, pending a rendering of the structure, and then gave final approval, following a full presentation a couple of weeks ago.

"We wanted this structure to satisfy the families, citizens, and the board, while enhancing the appearance of the existing library," MacDonald said.

The Trustees were thrilled to see that the plans for the memorial in many ways mirrored the library, particularly the vestibule of its main entrance.

"It will be a place for people to sit and read a book or reflect," said Simon.

The monument will include over 3,000 pavers, which are similar to bricks but slightly larger, with the names of all the victims of September 11. It will also include two plaques to honor Gay and Hashem.

Simon envisions the monument also honoring the courage, strength, and resolve of all of the first responders who risked their lives on that day.

According to Simon, engineer Richard Cuoco is helping with the site plan. Mark Ginsburg, the builder and owner of Tewksbury Country Club, has agreed to construct the memorial. The architectural firm of Gavin & Sullivan is creating the drawings.

"We have a first class group of people assisting us and I want to especially thank Mary MacDonald, Library Trustee Chairman," Simon said. "We want a community effort for a community asset, and we will give an opportunity for everyone in the community to participate and contribute."

An ideal scenario for Simon is a structure that will provide a fitting memorial, but will also be an uplifting tribute to the bravery and strength of the American citizens.

According to Ryan, the memorial will stand as a reminder to everyone who passes through the intersection of Main Street and Chandler Street.

"This will be a lasting, fitting memorial for the people of Tewksbury," Ryan said.

tion of Representative in Congress in this year's primary, as is Mary-Ellen Manning of Salem for a re-nomination as Fifth District Councillor.

Stephen O'Malley, Jr. of Nahant is running unopposed for the Republican nomination for the race for Representative in Congress.

Paul McGeary of Gloucester is running unopposed on the Democrat ballot for the position of Senator in General Court. McGeary was involved in former Vermont Governor Howard Dean's presidential campaign; his speeches caught the attention of Democrats looking to challenge the State Senate seat currently held by Republican Bruce Tarr.

"Governor Romney is providing a stark picture of the state, and Senator Tarr has been voting along with Romney," McGeary said.

Tarr is likewise running unopposed on the Republican ballot to retain his position as Senator in General Court.

James Miceli of Wilmington appears unopposed on the Democrat ballot for Precincts 1, 2, 4, 5 and 6 for the position of Representative in General Court. No Republican candidate appears on the ballot for those precincts, leaving Miceli with no apparent challenger in the upcoming election.

Miceli has served consecutively in the State House of Representatives since 1977. This will be the first time in several elections that he has run unopposed. He views the lack of an opponent as not an opportunity to rest, but as one to devote all of his time running legislative projects without having to campaign.

"I look forward to the voters support on Tuesday," Miceli said. "I have a unique situation in this election, and I will continue to work as hard for the residents as I always have."

Charles Murphy of Burlington will not see Democratic opposition to his bid to retain his position as Representative in General Court for Precinct 3.

John Cirignano of Bedford is likewise running unopposed for the Republican nomination for Precinct 3's Representative in General Court.

As a write-in candidate in the 2002 election, Cirignano garnered a full 30 percent of the districts' vote, including 40 percent of Wilmington's Precinct 3 vote. He claims to be getting a lot of support from Democrats as well as Republicans.

"There is a lot of dissatisfaction in the district," Cirignano said.

Neither the Libertarian Party nor the Green-Rainbow Party has candidates running in the September primary.

The Democrats, Republicans, Libertarians and Green-Rainbows are the four political parties officially recognized by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in the State Primary. During the Primary, voters may only cast votes for candidates within their declared political party. Residents registered as un-enrolled, a declaration commonly referred to as Independent, may choose a ballot for any one of the recognized parties at the September Primary without altering their un-enrolled status.

Un-enrolled voters who selected a party ballot during the March Presidential Primary; however, did become enrolled in whichever party they cast votes for and needed to fill out a Change of Party Enrollment Card of a signed written request to revert back to their previous status.

In the 2002 September Primary, which included a hotly contested gubernatorial race, 3,645 Wilmington residents cast a ballot. Only 1,652 voters made it to the polls for the 2000 state primary, which had a similar number of uncontested races as 2004's ballots.

Town Clerk Kathleen Scanlon expects record turnouts for the November general election, however, and urges voters who might not be inclined to come out on September 14th to take advantage of the primary as a means to familiarize themselves with the new voting equipment.

While August 25 was the deadline for registering to vote in the September Primary, voters have until October 13 to register to vote in the national election on November 2.

Returners gearing up for opener

Velardo, golf team looking for repeat seasons

By PAUL HAYES
Sports Correspondent

Led by a defending state champion, and returning a group of seasoned veterans, the Wilmington High golf team expects to be in the thick of the hunt for the Cape Ann League title.

The Wildcats enter the season with 10 upperclassmen on their 12-man roster, including senior co-captains Brian Velardo and Brendan Strem. Last season Velardo captured the Cape Ann League and State Division 3 individual championship titles.

Coach Al Fessenden hopes experience will translate into wins as Wilmington High attempts to improve upon last seasons 7-4-2 record, which placed the team second in the CAL behind Andover High.

"We have a lot of experienced returning starters," said Fessenden. "But four or five teams (including) Andover, Newburyport and Rockport are returning with most of their team intact. I think the CAL will be a strong league."

Wilmington returns arguably the strongest CAL golfer in Velardo. Following in the footsteps of brothers David and Brian, both former Wilmington High captains, Kevin enters the season on a hot streak.

Over the summer he took home the titles from a pair of big name tournaments. Velardo won the final of the New England PGA Junior Match-Play Championship, 3 and 1 over John O'Connor of Quincy, and the NEPGA Titleist Junior Tour Championship at Nashawtuc Country Club in Concord.

Velardo and Strem will lead a talented group of golfers into battle. Also expected to compete as part of the varsity starting eight are three returning lettermen: senior Mike Hackett, junior Zack Ungvarsky, and sophomore Jason Evans.

After hurting his back midway through last season, Hackett appears to have recovered and is expected to have a strong season. Meanwhile Evans has worked hard on his golf game during the off-season and is poised to have a breakout season.

According to Fessenden, returning varsity players must be prepared to lead the way for less experienced players, and need to set a winning tone early in the season.

"I know from practice that some kids have put in the practice (during the off-season) and some are question marks," said Fessenden. "The returning letterman have to step up to the plate."

Seven golfers will compete for the final three roster spots. Those appearing to have the inside edge as of press time were seniors Scott Konieczka and Brian Frongillo and juniors Jeff Youngclaus and Alex Montalto.

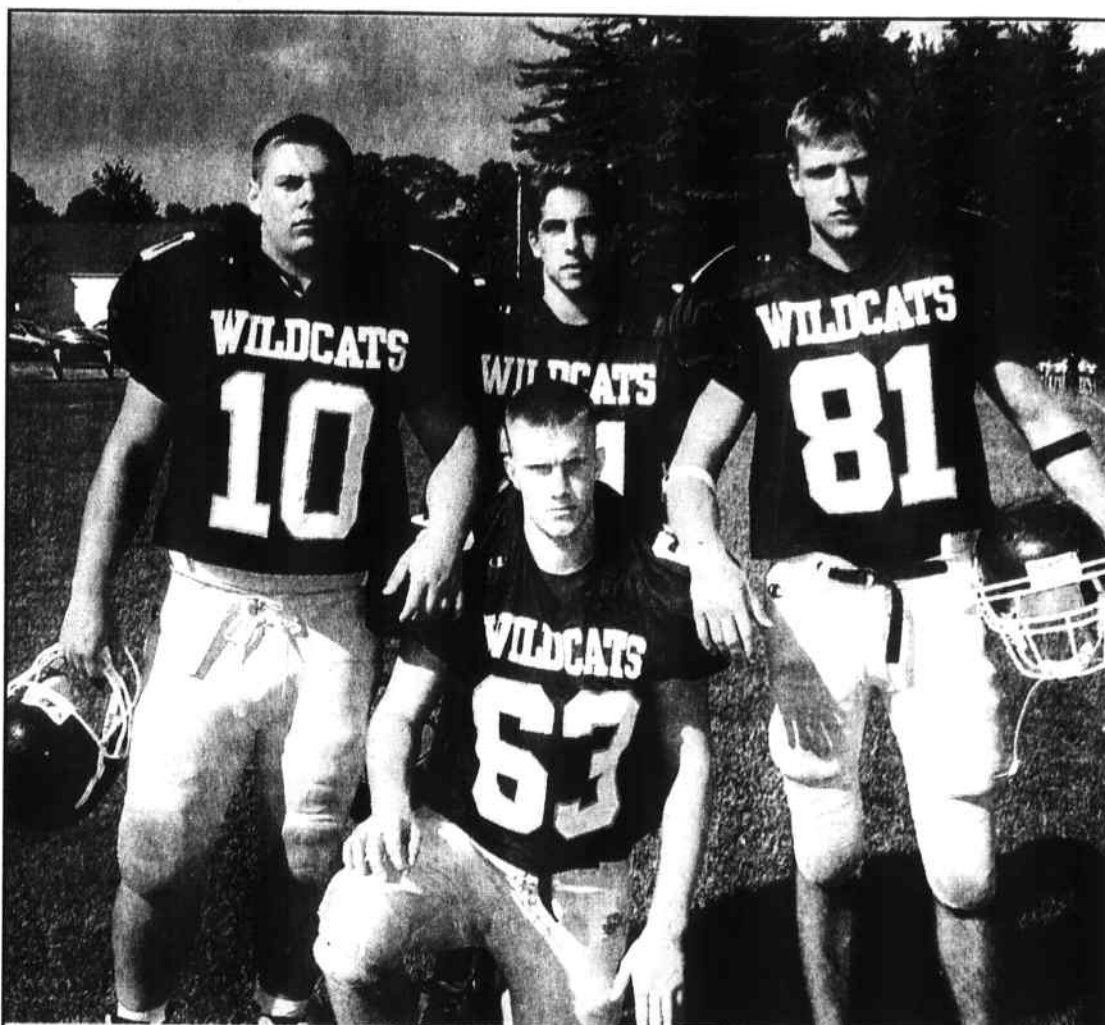

Over the course of four pre-season practices Fessenden has been impressed with Konieczka, who he characterizes as a hard worker having spent multiple seasons working towards a shot at playing varsity.

Also jockeying for position on the varsity roster are juniors Joe Dimare and Ryan Trully, and sophomore Brendan Sheehan.

All seven will be given an opportunity to play their way onto the starting roster during a team tournament prior to the opening match on Wednesday. Fessenden promised that players who did not play in the opening matches would be given ample opportunity to earn a starting spot later in the season.

"I'll make practice more competitive this year. We'll throw varsity kids into the pool and let them fight for spots," said Fessenden. "These kids all have the ability to go out there. We'll see shortly who has practiced hardest in the off season."

Wilmington opens their season with three straight road matches Wednesday at Triton, Thursday at Hamilton-Wenham, and Tuesday at Newburyport.

WHS Football Season Preview

'Cats look to remain competitive again

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The last time we saw the Wilmington High football team, the 'Cats put up wild offensive numbers in the 42-28 win over Tewksbury. You can certainly expect those kind of high scoring matches this year.

This year's Wildcat team returns a lot of very good offensive weapons, however, gone from the 9-2 team are many key elements to both the offensive and defensive lines, as well as many key defenders. Head coach Bob Almeida, who has never had a losing season since coming on board, recognizes the inexperience his team has and said it has to come together very soon.

"We are very inexperienced in both the offensive and defensive lines," he said. "We played a tough Burlington team in a scrimmage and they are very good up front. They are a big physical team and we got pushed around. We moved the ball well, but we haven't stopped anyone yet defensively."

"If we don't get better ... we need to get better in those areas. (Assistant) Coach (Mike) Barry is the best person to get those areas in shape and you can bet he'll do his best to get the job done."

Almeida has said that his team will throw the ball a lot more this season than in the years past. Because of what junior quarterback Joe Herra can do, added with several receivers with great potential and the questions of the offensive line, make it an easy decision to throw the ball more.

"We're still moving people around trying to find the best people at every position," said Almeida. "We're excited because we are getting better. We feel like we will throw the ball a lot more, but there are concerns because we've had some drops in the preseason. We need to protect Joey and we need to make plays."

"The running game will still be our emphasis. Robbie Gillis we're hoping will be healthy and have a big season for us."

Offensively, Herra (5-9, 170) leads the way. The junior has been sensational in his first two years as a signal caller. He moves extremely well, throws a very good ball especially consistently whether it be over the middle, the regular up-and-out calls or the deep ball. He makes extremely good decisions with the ball, and is excellent in the two-minute drill.

Over his first two seasons, Herra has combined to complete 92-of-187 passes for 1,479 yards with 13 touchdown passes. In addition, he's also rushed for 597 yards and scored 16 touchdowns.

"He's a special player," said Almeida. "If he has the year we think he is capable of, I think we'll be one of the top teams in the league. But we need to protect him, and we need people to make plays."

Among Herra's targets will be one of the three assistant captains, senior tight end Brennan Jones (6-1, 185). Last year he caught seven passes for 166 yards including three touchdowns. Junior Sean Murphy (6-2, 210) is back, and he emerged late in the year making six catches for 82 yards scoring one touchdown.

The third receiver will be senior Joe Mayo (6-0, 170), who missed a lot of action last year with a broken collarbone, but had a solid baseball season as a junior.

The running game will also be a vital cog to the success of the team. Robbie Gillis, another one of the three assistant captains, will be the go-to player. The 5-foot-9, 210 pound tailback has rushed for 500 yards in the past two seasons, including his 85 carries for 333 yards and seven touchdowns, while battling an ankle injury throughout last year's season.

Besides Gillis and Herra, who'll see the brunt of the carries, fullback Stephen Downs will be in the mix. The junior who stands at 5-foot-11 and 210 pounds, scored three touchdowns last year on 33 carries in limited duty.

Senior Brian Giamberardino, the third of the assistant captains, had 85 rushing yards also in limited duty.

Creating the holes for the backs and protecting Herra so he can throw, will be a brand new offensive line with just one veteran returner. Senior captain Mike Thibault (5-11, 175) will be back as the team's starting right guard. Senior Ryan Quigley (6-4, 210) will be the starting right tackle. On the left side will be junior Nick Hogan (5-11, 205) at tackle and junior Mike Haepers (6-0, 190) at guard. Junior Nick Menent (5-10, 170) will be the starting center.

Defensively, will be most of the same players, which could prove costly if there's any injuries. Jones along with junior Matt Marden (5-9, 175) will be the two defensive ends. Downs and Hogan are the starting tackles with senior Anthony Almeida (5-8, 155) at nose guard in the 5-2 set up. Menent and Gillis are the pair of linebackers.

In the secondary, Herra and Giamberardino are the two safeties, with two newcomers, junior Ryan Olivieri and Greg Stewart as the two cornerbacks.

For special teams, Stewart will do the placekicking, Murphy will be the punter, Downs will be the long snapper, and Herra and Gillis will return punts/kickoffs.

"The defensive line needs to sure up very quickly," said Coach Almeida. "The secondary is inexperienced but they've showed signs of being a decent group."

This year's schedule is a little bit different this season with the additions of Lawrence - who is now in the Cape Ann League - and North Reading - who is back in the league - and the subtractions of Ipswich (rotation of the schedule) and non-league opponent Andover. Still in the mix should be a pretty good balance of teams.

Returning league champion Masconomet is the heavy favorite to repeat with quarterback Drew Carey leading the way. Pentucket and Hamilton-Wenham will certainly be up there, while, Newburyport and North Andover are always competitive. Almeida said that Lawrence had about 80 kids trying out, while, North Reading should be right in the race, while Triton should be improved.

Before jumping ahead, Almeida said several times how big the team's first game of the season will be when Hamilton-Wenham comes to town Friday for a 7:00 pm showdown.

"We have a real tough opener and I think it's probably one of the biggest openers we've ever had here," he said. "I think this will be a big test for us. We have a lot of the heavy hitters late in the season and it's so important for us to win the first game. If not, it could be a long season."

Girls Soccer Preview

Cape Ann League champs chomping at the bit

Coming off the greatest season the team has ever had in its history, the Wilmington High girls soccer team returns 16 players off last year's team with varsity experience when the season gets underway Thursday afternoon on the road against Masconomet Regional.

Just as New England Patriots head coach Bill Belichick always says, "last year was last year, and we're focusing on this year," the Wildcat girls will have to do the same considering the amount of talent they graduated.

Vacated from the team are five defenders, including the league's MVP in Rachele See, as well the team's second and third leading scorer from last year including Ashley Steenbruggen - who is now playing at Roger Williams University in Rhode Island - and Lauren Rappoli, the Town Crier's Female Athlete of the Year. What's left over is still a lot of talent, including 21 of the 26 players seniors and juniors.

"I'm pleased with the way we look right now, but we have some holes to fill from last year," said coach Sue Hendee. "Our strength will be depth. We have a lot of kids who are at the same level, and we really don't have any standout players. But what we do have is good, smart fundamentally sound soccer players."

"I think we are two deep in every position. We want to substitute a lot more this year and try to wear teams down as much as possible."

The 'Cats are coming off a marvelous season. Wilmington finished the regular season with a 12-4-2 record, which was the best in the Cape Ann League large school conference. The 'Cats added another victory with a post season win over Saugus, before losing in the second round of the state tournament to Wakefield in a four-overtime thriller which came down to penalty kicks.

During last year's magical run, Wilmington set school records for victories (13), while keeper Alicia Braid, back for her fourth season between the posts, set a mark for nine shutouts in a season, including five in a row.

Hendee was tabbed the league's and the Town Crier's Coach of the Year, while, several members of the team also were recognized including senior tri-captain Debbie Lyons voted to the all-conference team, and Braid being named to the league's all-star team. Lyons returns after leading the team in scoring with 15 goals and 5 assists. She'll anchor what could be an extremely fast and dangerous offensive attack.

"Definitely one of the strengths is the forward line," said Hendee. "There's a lot of good wheels there. Right now we're going to keep the 4-4-2 system, but if we're trailing by a goal late in the game, of course you push everyone up. But I think the kids really understand the system a lot better now, so we're going to stick with it."

Besides Lyons, juniors Kat Strazzere, Jackie Mello and Amber Warnick will be the other three forwards, who'll rotate in the two player shifts. Strazzere really emerged last year with six goals and 2

Olson keeping things on the light side

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

With a new coach, basically a brand new team, being voted a co-captain and now playing a new position, Wilmington High senior Emily Olson has had some acclimating to do thus far in the early goings of the field hockey season. Instead of worrying about all of her new responsibilities, she simplified it all.

"We look pretty good so far," said Olson. "We don't have a lot of returners from last year's varsity team, but those who are new have caught on. We all get along really well, so it'll be a fun year no matter if we win or don't win."

Knowing that this year's team basically had just three full time varsity players back from the 10-8-1 season of a year ago, the seniors, mostly Olson and fellow co-captain Celine DeMaggio, got the team together for the summer. That seemed to have worked.

"Almost all of us did a Nike Camp together at Endicott College, and we also played an indoor season together in Topsfield," she said. "I think it's really helped us get used to each other and get to know each other. We wanted to become friends, not just teammates."

Olson came up from the junior varsity level midway through her sophomore season and never looked back thereafter. She played mostly the right midfield position and logged a lot of minutes especially last year.

Mutchler said that Olson is a great person to have on any team, and has improved leaps and bounds over the past few years.

"Emily is a very easy person to get along with," said Mutchler. "She's warm, she's friendly and she likes a good laugh. She has a tall and lanky body so she covers the field very well. She'll do a lot of the running because she is a midfielder."

The Wilmington High girls field hockey team opens its season this week, after last year's 10-8-1 record which included a trip to the state tournament. This year's team is under the direction of first year coach Carol Mutchler, and co-captains Emily Olson and Celine DeMaggio.

"She's an excellent stickhandler and she goes to the ball. She has improved her drive a lot. She now makes room for herself and not cramped up to drive the ball. Her drives look good right now and she also has good tracking. I think she is peaking right where she should be."

With just several of the 16 players on the roster with varsity experience, this year's team has its work cut out for them especially playing in a difficult Cape Ann League with the likes of North Andover, Amesbury, Rockport and Manchester among the elite.

Olson and the rest of the Wildcats are hoping to get off to a strong start and compete with the best.

"I think everyone on the team has their own strength and we all offer something completely different to the team and I think that's why we can be successful," said Olson. "I think it's going to be a lot of fun."

Having fun in the sport she loves, hasn't seemed to be anything Emily Olson has had to get acclimated with.

The Wilmington High field hockey team will be trying to make it two winning seasons in a row, the first under new head coach Carol Mutchler. Senior co-captains Emily Olson (left) and Celine DeMaggio (right) plan on doing their parts.

Field Hockey team building on up

New coach begins laying down the bricks

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

After last year's ten win season, which included a trip to the post-season for the first time in four years, this year's Wilmington High girls field hockey team would like nothing better than to get back to the playoffs.

Under first year head coach Carol Mutchler, that might be a difficult chore since last year's team was primarily upperclassmen. But with several players with varsity experience, Mutchler is not concentrating on wins and losses as much as she wants the players, and especially the team to build.

"This is a rebuilding year," said Mutchler. "We're hoping for a .500 record and make it to the playoffs. We only have a few girls who have a lot of varsity experience. The girls seem to be working hard, but as for playing time it's going to come by performance at practice and at games, and not by whether someone is a senior, a junior or what have you."

"Right now we're working on stamina and conditioning and making good decisions."

Last year's team ended with an 10-8-1 overall record under former coach Patty Cushing. Besides Cushing, who stepped aside from coaching duties after the season to concentrate on another career, also gone are a handful of talented players, forwards, midfielders and defenders. This year's team will be led by co-captains Celine DeMaggio and Emily Olson.

"I'm expecting both of them to set the pace for the team," said Mutchler. "I'm expecting the seniors to step up, and then the juniors and sophomores who are new to come along."

"I'm familiar really with all of the girls except the three sophomores. I coached all of the girls at least one year (down at the JV level) except for the three sophomores (who played on the freshmen team last year) so that does make it an easier transition. We need every single one of them, but we're going to play whoever can bring us to the state tournament."

Mutchler said she plays a four forward system, and will look for DeMaggio as well as seniors Christina Miele and Jess LeCesse, and junior Kellie Farrell for support. Olson returns after a strong junior campaign as the team's center midfielder, and she'll look for senior Kristine Barry and junior Jackie Moran as the other two middies.

Seniors Julie Martell and Michelle Cassim seem to be a lock for the two back positions in front of senior goalie Jenn Sullivan, who came up from the JV team midway through last season.

"Michelle is a solid back and Julie has an excellent drive," said Mutchler. "When she keeps the ball in front of her she is very good. Michelle has excellent tracking ability and the two of them really play off each other well."

Juniors Amy Lentini, Amanda Nichols and Devin Miller along with sophomores Danielle Robarge, Deidre Carroll and Cassie Doherty also will be on hand as members of the team. Mutchler said all six of them don't have set positions as of yet, and probably will play where the team most needs help.

Wilmington gets underway with a road trip to Newburyport on Friday before coming home against North Andover - who dramatically knocked off perennial powerhouse Watertown in last year's Division 2 North game before losing to eventual state champion Dedham in the Eastern Mass final - for a Monday night home contest beginning at 7:00 pm.

Coming off 12-win season

Boys soccer team looking for new goals with young team

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The past two seasons have certainly been successful for the Wilmington High boys soccer team. Just at the right time, the 'Cats found a way to peak towards the end of the two seasons, making enjoyable rides in the state tournament. Coming off its 12-6-2 record, this year's team is extremely young and inexperienced.

Thus far through the preseason, head coach Steve Scanlon has seen his ups and downs. The 'Cats have been out-matched by three very good programs Stoneham, Dracut and Westford Academy, but have held their own against Austin Prep, Billerica and Methuen. Scanlon said there is potential surrounding the team.

"We're young and inexperienced," said Scanlon. "We graduated quite a bit from last year. It's a rebuilding year, but we do have some veterans in the defensive end. We want to build it up starting with the defense. What we do have for experience is mostly in the back so that's a good starting point."

"With any young and inexperienced team, comes several glaring needs or holes to be filled. Scanlon said there's two extremely important ones.

"The most glaring problem is the inability to control the ball in the middle of the field," he said. "We don't have anyone who can hold onto the ball. We've experimented with a lot of different players and right now we haven't found the one person. I think we'll be OK up front. We have some kids who can score, but the problem will be getting them the ball."

Besides the midfield play, Scanlon has other concerns besides the X's and O's.

"Right now I think the team lacks some competitive fire," said Scanlon. "Sometimes with a young team you don't have to worry about that, you can count on that because they are hungry to play. Conditioning has been an issue with some players. We don't see the burning desire to play. You're supposed to have that because of the love of the game, that's why you're there. We need some spirit and I'm concerned with the leadership."

Defensively the team seems to be in good shape. Senior tri-captain Anthony Azevedo is a very polished, technically sound sweeper. He's good with both feet and makes good decisions with the ball. He'll be the anchor defensively, while senior tri-captain Bryan Little will play in front of him as a flanker defender. He's a steady player who doesn't try to do too much.

Juniors Brian Wilson, Brian Sullivan and Tim Collins seem to have the inside track on the other defender positions, and all three seem reliable in the backfield. Juniors Nick Gustin and Rick Fudge will also see time on defense.

In the midfield, Scanlon is still trying to find the right mix.

Thus far senior tri-captain Mike Vassallo with juniors Chris Crosby, Tony Karalekas and Mike Earls are all fighting for spots. Several other players on the team will have versatile roles with senior Billy Papageorgiou getting time as a striker/midfielder and the back-up goalie. Both Wilson and Sullivan will see some time in the midfield. Junior PJ Russo, sophomore Chris Azevedo and freshmen Matt Figueroa and Mike Codnell will see time at both forward and midfield.

Junior Mike Auciello will most likely split time between midfield and defense.

The last three spots on the team seem to be a lock with junior strikers Alex Chalmers and Steve Pochtner, as well as freshman goalie Vinny Papageorgiou.

"Vinny is good for his age," said Scanlon. "He played on the Under 15 US Olympic Developmental program and he's one of the top players around. But he's still a freshman. He's technically sound, but he needs experience. He's done OK so far.

"Pochtner and Chalmers can both score. They both had I think over 20 goals last year on the JV team. It looks like they can finish, but you're always concerned with players making the jump from JV because of the speed, intensity and overall better play on the varsity level."

Wilmington opens its season against league perennial power Masconomet under the lights at home Thursday beginning at 7:00 pm.

"We haven't beaten them since 1997," said Scanlon. "They will be very good, and so won't North Andover, Ipswich, Hamilton-Wenham and I think Lynnfield will be very good. My only expectation is for the team to work hard. When that happens you see the growth individually and then as a team."

Bryan's not so Little on defense

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For many years, the Wilmington High boys soccer team has been very successful because of heart, hustle and aggressiveness, rather than talent and skill. More often than not, the 'Cats players use their physical play to wear down opponents which has really worked over the past decade as the team has gone to at least the sectional semi-final four times.

This year's club might not be in the caliber of advancing deep into the playoffs, but the squad does have a player in Bryan Little, who fits in the mold of those former players. A defender, Little likes to play the old school aggressive and physical style.

"He's a rugged defender," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "He works very hard and is a steady player. He logs a lot of minutes on the flank for us. He's a tough, physical player. He plays with that fire that you need and want. He doesn't get pushed around."

Playing at the stopper position, ahead of the talented Anthony Azevedo (who along with Little and Mike Vassallo are the three tri-captains), Little seems to have settled in comfortably.

"He's a conservative defender," said Scanlon. "He has a good work ethic which reflects on the other players on the field. That's a big positive."

Besides playing his steady style of defense, Little's role will expand much more this season. He is one of the seniors and captains, so leadership will certainly be asked of him. That could be tricky, considering the team lost nine of its starters from last year, and currently have just four seniors on the team which is in a rebuilding stage.

"Everyone wants to make the state tournament again, and we're going to push as hard as we can to get there," he said.

Little, who also runs the 400 and 600 in outdoor and indoor track, said that right now through the preseason the team is just trying to get familiar with one another and get the early kinks out.

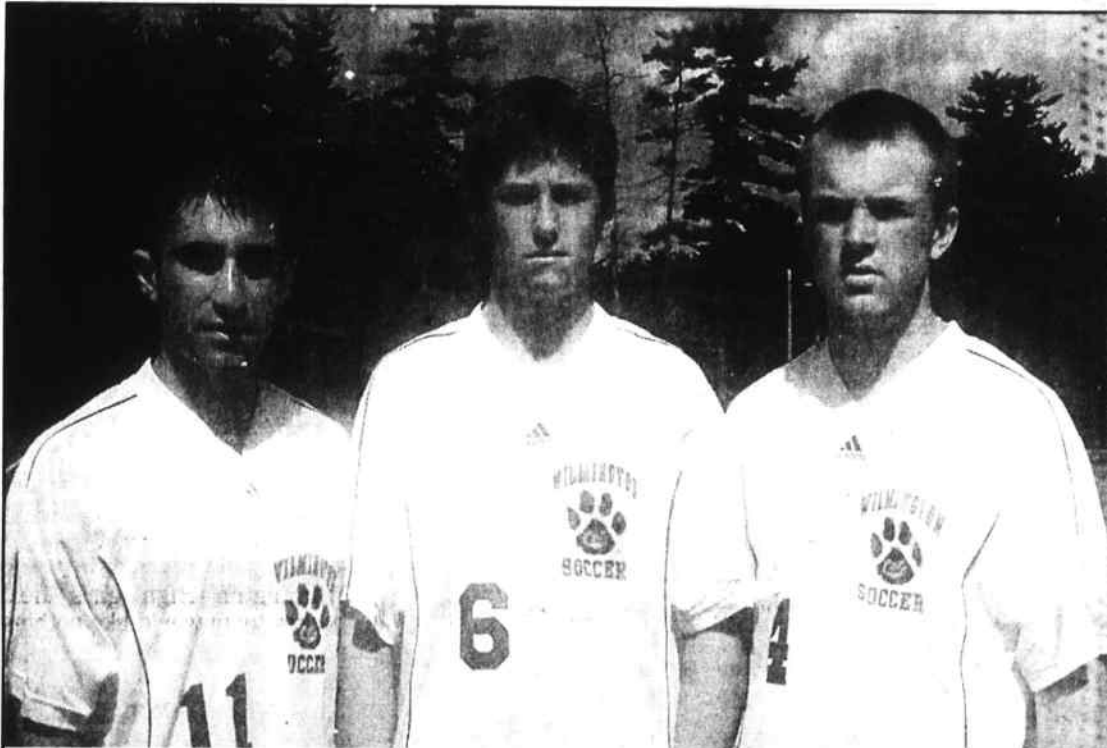

"We're struggling a bit offensively, and we finally did score a goal," he said. "We lost nine starters from last year. We have a lot of kids who played JV last year, so we're just getting used to each other. It does put some pressure on you, but I think once you get to the varsity level, and get used to each other it'll be OK. We just have to find ways to score."

Little will play in front of Azevedo and freshman goalie Vinny Papageorgiou, with help from several other teammates.

"Vinny looks real good, especially for a freshman," said Little. "He'll keep us in a lot of games. Brian Wilson and Brian Sullivan (are back on defense with us), and we're just trying to keep the ball out of our net, and help the forwards out."

As long as he plays his aggressive, tough style of play, the 'Cats can count on Bryan Little to do his part defensively and help the midfielders and forwards get the ball so they can score.

assists, while, Mello is one of the most athletic and fastest girls around coming off her five goal campaign.

A handful of players will also rotate as midfielders. Seniors Caitlin Foley, Lani Cabral-Pini and Karla Ellis will most likely see the most action in the two central spots, the offensive and defensive midfielder positions, while, junior Nadia Prinivalli and sophomore Teryn Martinello and could also see time there.

The outside midfielders will be tri-captains Ryan Murphy and Teresa DeSimone, with senior Caitlin McNabb and junior Alicia Murray. Freshman Katie Cole will also be in the midfielders mix.

"The midfield is strong regardless where anyone plays," said Hendee. "The depth is definitely at the midfield position."

Defensively the team has some holes to fill. Senior Sarah McGowan is coming off a strong season and she will most likely play an outside position because of her speed. Senior Amanda Figuerido and junior Taylor Duffy will probably see the most action at sweeper, while junior Alyssa Bibeau is up from the JV team and looks much improved and could secure one of the spots down.

Junior Kim Gentile played very well in the state tournament and is battling for an outside back spot. And sophomore Samantha Canning, who played on the Arlington Catholic varsity squad last year, is a transfer and brings experience to the table.

A handful of other players could see action in several different positions. Senior Katherine McMahon and sophomore Brianna Bozzella will split time between midfield and forward.

Senior Kelly Crosby and sophomore Amanda Stone will split between offense and defense.

"The defense is rebuilding," said Hendee. "Of the eight seniors from last year's that graduated, five of them played defense. We do have two returning varsity goalies and I can't remember ever having two returners heading into a season."

Senior Alicia Braid returns as the starter with junior Alicia Poirier serving as the back-up. In the team's last 36 games, Braid has 17 shutouts, including a school record of nine last year. The duo combined to give up just 12 goals in 20 games last year for an 0.80 goals against average.

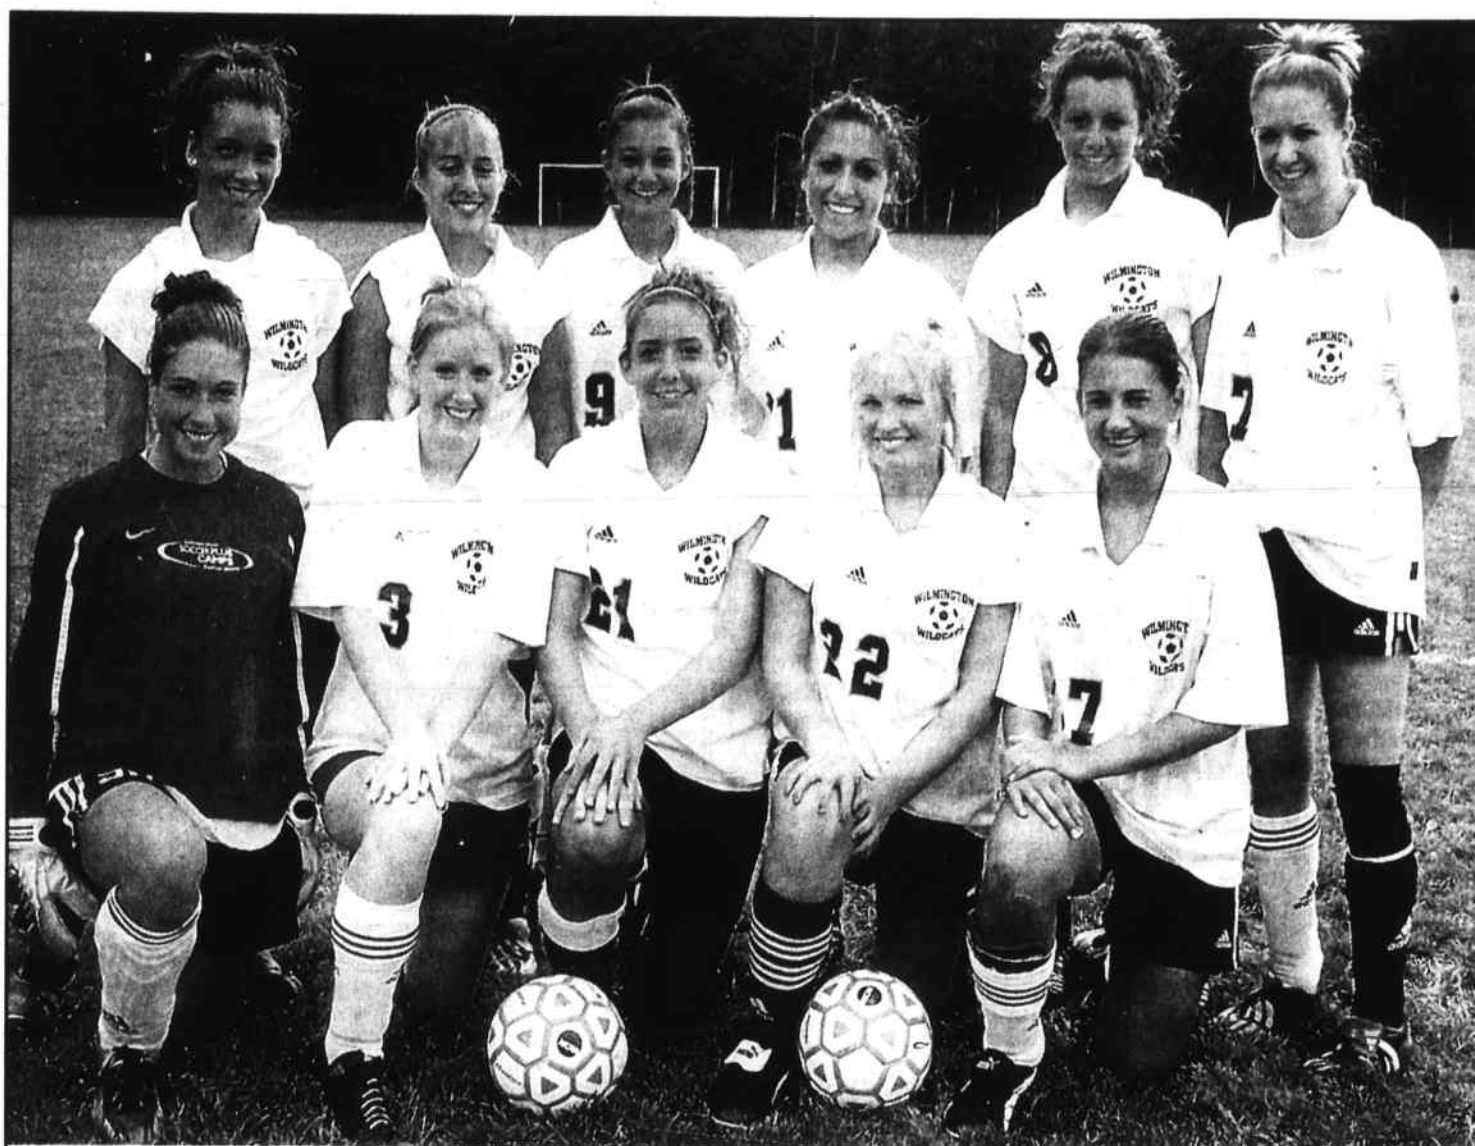

Once again Wilmington will have its hands full in what should be another very competitive Cape Ann League. Masconomet and North Andover are always very strong and Hamilton-Wenham emerged late last season in the large school division. Lynnfield is coming off its Division 3 state championship crown and should be very good once again.

North Reading is always competitive, while two non-league games with Tewksbury are always very close battles.

"I think the league has really improved over the last few years," said Hendee. "It'll be another very competitive battle. I think, just as the case was last year, that whichever team wins the league will only do it by a point or two. We had never won the league before last year so I assume we'll be the target by everyone else, just like we targeted those schools in the years past."

Last year's terrific season might have boosted the numbers up a bit for the program. Hendee is keeping 26 players on her team, after 72 tried out for the program, leaving 25 with the JV team and 21 with the freshmen team.

"It's going to be an experimental year because of the large numbers we have and I know the numbers are very big in the next two years as well which is great," said Hendee. "That's a whole different problem to have - it's a very good problem to have actually."

Youth girls hockey; learn to skate registration dates

Wilmington Youth Hockey has expanded their girl's hockey teams by joining the girls teams with Burlington Youth Hockey. Two teams have already started practicing - an Under 12 and Under 14 team.

Tryouts for the new Under 10 team will be held Thursday, September 9th at 7:10 PM at the Burlington Ice Palace. A limited number of openings are available - all interested girls may attend.

Girls just beginning to play hockey can tryout for the U10 team and also enroll in the WYH Buzzer or intramural program.

For further information, please contact Kevin Pickett by calling the WYH phone line: (978) 988-5599 or by e-mail at wilmingtohyockey@yahoo.com. Registration forms for new players can be found on the website at www.wilmingtonathletics.com/WilmingtonYH

Lyons racing to new standards

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Before every game, Debbie Lyons doesn't like to be bothered. It's not that she doesn't like her teammates, but the senior is very superstitious. She stays by herself, listens to her walkman, before going through the same rituals every game of not touching the chalk lines on the sides of the field, and touching the goal posts and cross-bars for good luck.

After the season she had last year, it would be a good idea for the entire team to stay away from her as much as possible until the first whistle blows for each game.

As a junior, Lyons was voted a Cape Ann League All-Conference player after helping the 'Cats win their first league title in school history. She was bumped up to forward before the season started and had a breakout year scoring 15 goals and adding five assists.

"Debbie is so fast," said head coach Sue Hendee. "She is just crazy fast with the ball and it just opens so many opportunities for us. She had a really good season for us last year and I know she's very excited about this one."

On Tuesday she was voted a tri-captain along with Ryan Murphy and Teresa DeSimone, and as one of the leaders, she expects and hopes that the team can duplicate what it did last year, ending the season with a 13-5-2 record.

"I think we look pretty good," she said. "In our scrimmages we have been dominating. For me I think we look pretty good. We have speed, lots and lots of speed. Our offense is our strength, and we have to work on defense a little bit because we lost so many players from last year's team. But I know we will pick it up."

During the 18 regular season games last year, Lyons scored at least one goal in 14 of them. She knows that there will be games this season where she'll be marked up, double teamed or shadowed, but if that's the case she knows she has a lot of support around her.

"The key to us is we're going to try to run a crazy offense, go as hard as you can for ten minutes, then sub and try to wear teams down," she said. "We can do that because we have so much speed. Kat (Strazzere), Amber (Warnick) and Jackie (Mello) are the other forwards and all of them are so fast and so are some of the midfielders."

Lyons said she feels very comfortable working with the other three forwards in the 4-2 system. With two of them working together at a time, the three-sport athlete who also excels in both indoor and outdoor track said all of them bring a lot to the field each day.

"If you send the ball long, Jackie will beat anyone," said Lyons. "When you're not on a breakaway Kat has real good speed and skill. I haven't worked with Amber that much, but she's a lefty, so it's great when she sends those cross passes over."

Lyons said she does feel a little pressure to duplicate her season and scoring statistics, but the four-year varsity player said that all she cares about is trying to help the team win back-to-back league titles. It also wouldn't hurt helping the team advance further in the state tournament after last year's second round heart-breaking overtime shootout loss to Wakefield at home.

"Our team is nasty," she said. "I really think we can win (the league title) again. There's a little pressure on us, but I'm really looking forward to the season. I know I feel like we can win it again."

That's just as long as Debbie Lyons is left alone before every game while listening to her walkman.

Registration for learn to skate program September 12th and 19th 9:30 to 11:30 Wilmington Youth Hockey conducts a Learn to Skate program for any youngster interested in learning to skate or further developing their skating skills.

The program includes 10 sessions on Sundays at 1PM, beginning in early December.

The cost of the program is $125. Registration for the 2004-2005 Learn to Skate Program will take place on September 12th and September 19th from 9:30 AM to 11:30 AM at the Ristuccia Rink in Wilmington.

For additional information, please call Scott Stafford at the Wilmington Youth Hockey phone line at 978-988-5599, or visit the WYH website at www.wilmingtonathletics.com/WilmingtonYH

Boys runners trying to finish ahead of the pack

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

When it comes to cross country, it's all about depth. You can have a stud runner, but if you don't come in as a "pack" each and every meet, you'll lose more than you'll win.

That's what Wilmington High boys cross country coach Tom Bradley is hoping happens this year ... the pack.

With one of the best runners in the entire league in senior co-captain Chris Murray returning for his fourth season, Bradley is hoping the rest of the team can close the gap, and finish very close together which will then add up to victories. Last year the team finished 5-5 and had three solid runners, but after that there was a significant drop off.

"We have two solid runners with Chris and Tom (Miele) but we need several others to develop so we can win as many meets as we did last year," said Bradley.

Thus far in preseason, the 'Cats took on Austin Prep and Bradley said that Murray has already taken 25 seconds off his time against the Cougars from a season ago. Miele, he added, has really done a lot of work over the summer and it appears his endurance is much better as the coach looks for him to be one of the consistent finishers for the team throughout the season.

Senior newcomer Mike St. Aubin came out to the team. Usually known for his wrestling matches, he has been a surprise so far and Bradley thinks there is a lot of potential for him which could really boost the team.

Senior Ryan Curtis and junior Sam Oglesby return for another season, and both of them have continued to work very hard. Senior Sean McPherson who is usually a sprinter in track, seems to have improved his long distance running.

Senior Dan Jamerson has chopped four minutes off his time since he began on the team as he adds depth. Senior Dan Elsworth came over from the baseball program, and freshman Matt Bibeau could be within the team's top seven finishers on a consistent basis.

This year's season begins on Thursday with a tri-meet at home with visits from Lynnfield and Hamilton-Wenham beginning at 3:30.

"Masco and Newburyport are always strong, and Pentucket won the league last year but I think they graduated a lot," said Bradley. "North Andover has an elite runner named CJ Murray, who beat Chris last year, but the two of them should be two of the top runners in the league."

Miele standing tall for the club

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Late in last year's Wildcat boys basketball season, head coach Jim McCune was thrilled when he saw Tom Miele, standing all of 5-foot-2, drain a three-pointer on his first varsity shot during garbage time of a victory over Georgetown.

Six months later, the junior seems to have rubbed the effect of putting smiles on his coach's faces. Cross Country coach Tom Bradley was thrilled when Miele showed up to preseason workouts about five inches taller, and a better overall athletic frame.

"He was always a pretty decent athlete, but he was a small kid," said Bradley. "He shot up quite a bit over the summer and he's filled out a little more, too. I think that's why he looks a lot better."

Besides cross country and hoop, Miele also played for the JV baseball team last year. Now as a junior, he said he's not sure if it'll return to the diamond. Instead he's been hitting the pavements. With his taller body, his stride has expanded which has really helped him in the early goings.

"Over the summer, we ran a 5K race in North Reading and he did pretty well," said Bradley. "It was a difficult course and I think he came in seventh or eighth overall. He's been on a mission since. He looks good in practice and he's only about a minute behind Chris (Murray)."

Both Murray and Miele are this year's captains. Murray is a four-year veteran and one of the best runners in the entire league with consistent times in the 17 minute range. Miele said he has improved his time from 20:40 after his freshman season, to 19 minutes as a sophomore and would like to eventually narrow it down to the low 18/high 17 minute mark. With Murray ahead of him, he said getting to that feat is certainly a possibility.

"In practice he really helps me," said Miele. "I can keep up with him for the first few miles, and I try to keep him in sight for as long as I can after he passes me. He tells me just to make sure I give it all my best at the end, and just keep working as hard as I can."

Wins might be hard to come this season for the team since several key runners graduated from last year's 5-5 campaign. Miele has a solution to it all.

"We lost a lot of seniors from last year," he said. "We lost our second and third runners, so we have to fill some of the gaps. I know I have to step it up."

Knowing that the team had to fill a few slots, Murray did a lot of off-season work gearing up for this season.

"I put in about 25 to 30 miles a week," he said. "I went out (to the streets) five to six times a week. I did a lot of push-ups and sit-ups. I do feel better and I feel like I'm running better."

And if Tom Miele does continue to chop his time down, you can bet Tom Bradley will have a big smile on his face.

Under 12 A girls soccer team wins tournament

The Wilmington Girls U12A team participated in the North Reading Labor Day Soccer Tournament over this past week end. The team was extremely successful in that it went 5 wins and no losses. The team scored 16 goals while giving up only 3.

In the championship game, Wilmington posted a 1-0 victory over its rivals from North

Reading to win the U12 Division championship. All the girls worked hard and had a lot of fun. Jessica Lavin was named MVP of the tournament as she was dominant in the sweeper back position. A great way to start the fall season which league play starts this Saturday at Shawsheen field. Congratulations to all the girls.

Despite being young, volleyball team back for more success

By SANDRA FLETCHER
Sports Correspondent

Going all the way to the Division 3 North quarterfinals last season, the Wilmington High volleyball team have always been a force to be reckoned with on the court. With only three returning players from last season but a coach going on his sixth year the girls varsity volleyball team is working to keep up that reputation.

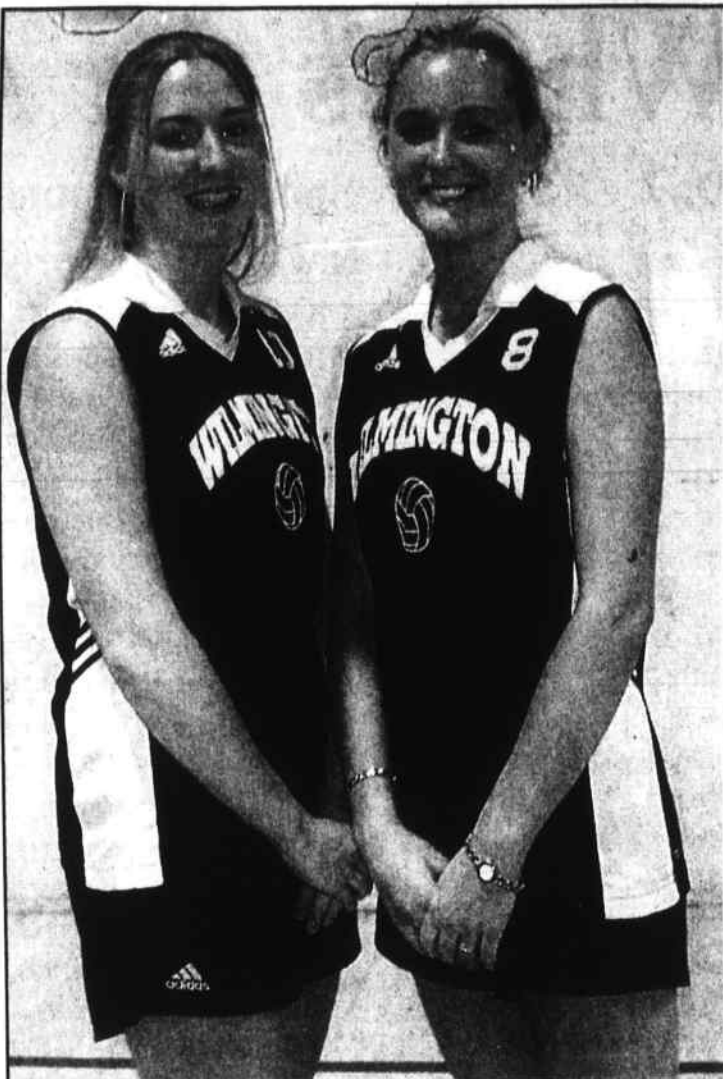

Coach Mark Staffier is working with a whole new set of girls this season but feels that with hard work and patience they will prove to be a competitive volleyball team.

"We are a totally new team," said Staffier. "We are working on drills and conditioning but most important on communication between each other on and off the court."

Staffier decided to only take 11 girls this year on the varsity team instead of his usual 12 or 13 team members. His reasoning falls on the junior varsity team and he is hoping to have some young talent pulled up during the season depending on the opposing team and situation.

Leading the team this year are junior co-captains Megan Godding and Kelley Lemke. Seniors Nicole Crowley and Krystal Chambers, along with juniors Ashley Vitale, Jillian Guzinski, Ashley Ricardo, Stephanie Steves, and Katie Celli are working with sophomores Amanda Miles and Stephanie Knoettner to make the Lady Wildcats a roaring team.

"With eight new girls, some who have played the sport before and some that haven't we have a lot of work to do," said Staffier. "I am very confident that the girls will come together from what I've seen and we'll make it to the tournament again this year."

Aside from the new girls, the team is also using a new format, the 5-1. The one person being the setter, Godding.

"We face challenges every year as a team looking into a quick moving season," said Staffier. "We are learning new techniques and learning the different styles of play from each other. I think that once we start putting the new techniques and drills into effect the girls will come together more and more."

Staffier feels that the girls confidence and patience levels will be the keys to a winning season. The team practices every day that a game is not scheduled. The team needs to win ten games in order to qualify for the state tournament. Staffier knows that his Lady Wildcats are up against some heavy competition, such as Lynnfield and Reading.

"Lynnfield and Reading have always been a tough competition and last year they were young teams," said Staffier. "We are going to practice hard and take one game at a time."

Staffier feels that the team chemistry and talents will fall into place but it will take some time. Volleyball is a game that moves quickly and before you know it, the state tournament is right around the corner. Either way the team will come together and Staffier believes it will be in time to make it to the tournament.

Thibault getting on the line for football team

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The offensive and defensive lines in football certainly can be dangerous territories. Besides doing all of the battles in the trenches without getting the glory, linemen have to go up against other guys, who might be bigger, faster or stronger for 40 plus plays. That's when linemen have their shares of battles whether it's, pushing, tackling and trying to create any leverage they can, to open holes for either the running back coming behind them, or the linebacker coming in behind them to make a big stop.

Despite his smaller frame for the offensive line, Wilmington High senior captain Mike Thibault doesn't let that stand in his way. The 5-10, 170-pound right guard, seems to adapt very well to the tough position.

"On the offensive line, he's our only experienced player," said coach Bob Almeida. "He's not going to knock anyone off the ball, but he'll fight you for 40 minutes. We can win with guys who will fight you for 40 minutes and we're hoping that rubs off on the other guys who don't have the experience Mike has. He has the ability of playing hard all of the time. But he's small for an offensive lineman. He's not the fastest, biggest or strongest kid, but he always gets the job done."

Thibault, who also will be fighting for the goalie position on this year's hockey team, said he just loves the game of football and everything it allows him to do.

"I like playing guard. I like being able to hit people. I try to play as hard as I can and just put a fight out there," he said.

Almeida has seen Thibault grow as a player and a person, since being a full-time varsity player two years ago.

"Late in his sophomore season we were decimated with injuries and suspensions on the offensive line so we brought him up from the JV team," said Almeida. "He was smaller then, but he gave it everything he had. He's started every game since. Last year he was a part of nine victories, and we hope his leadership carries over into this season."

That's the most important thing for this year's team: leadership. With so many players who left for graduation, Thibault was voted the team's lone captain, with three assistants named later, Robbie Gillis, Brennan Jones and Brian Giamberardino.

"Mike's taken a sense of leadership," said Almeida. "When we held the vote for captain he ran away with it and that was no surprise. Since day one he's stepped up and he's given us what we need from it and what the team has needed from him. Since the hockey season ended, he started with the weight training and conditioning and has been at every session. He also went to the New England Skills Clinic and helped us out running the Redmen/Wildcat youth camp."

With all of the preparation Thibault has done, he said the team has slowly started to put the pieces together during the pre-season.

"It's going OK," he said. "We're coming along and we're starting to pick it up. Nick Hogan broke his leg at practice (on Tuesday) so we're moving a lot of people around on the line and still getting adjusted."

Now with shifting of the line-ups, Thibault knows the team still has some work to do, but he's already started to count down the days until Friday's opening kickoff under the lights at Alumni Field.

"I can't wait for Friday," he said about the game against Hamilton-Wenham, who defeated them last year eliminating them from playoff contention. "I'm starting to get myself pumped up already for it. We don't care about revenge or anything like that. We just want to win the game and start the season off strong. We just want to beat them, and go on to the next game."

Girls Cross Country team looking for help

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Seven years ago, Tom Bradley didn't have to worry about losing a runner in the woods because he only had the bare minimum of five to choose from. That's the case again this season.

The Wilmington High girls cross country coach is hoping that several newcomers put on their athletic shoes and sign-up for the team before Thursday's home opening meet. Until then, the team will have to do the best they can with what they have.

"It's tough because if you have one girl absent or one girl who is hurt than you have to forfeit the meet," said Bradley. "It's happened once before but we've had some eighth grade girls practice with us. We still have a few more days so hopefully we can get a few more girls out for the team."

This year's team features two seniors, a foreign exchange student, and two sophomores with one currently injured. Co-captains Liz Pettigrew and Jen Loranger are the two veterans of the group, while junior Kristine Kovalenko is a transfer student from Russia, who will be here just for the school year.

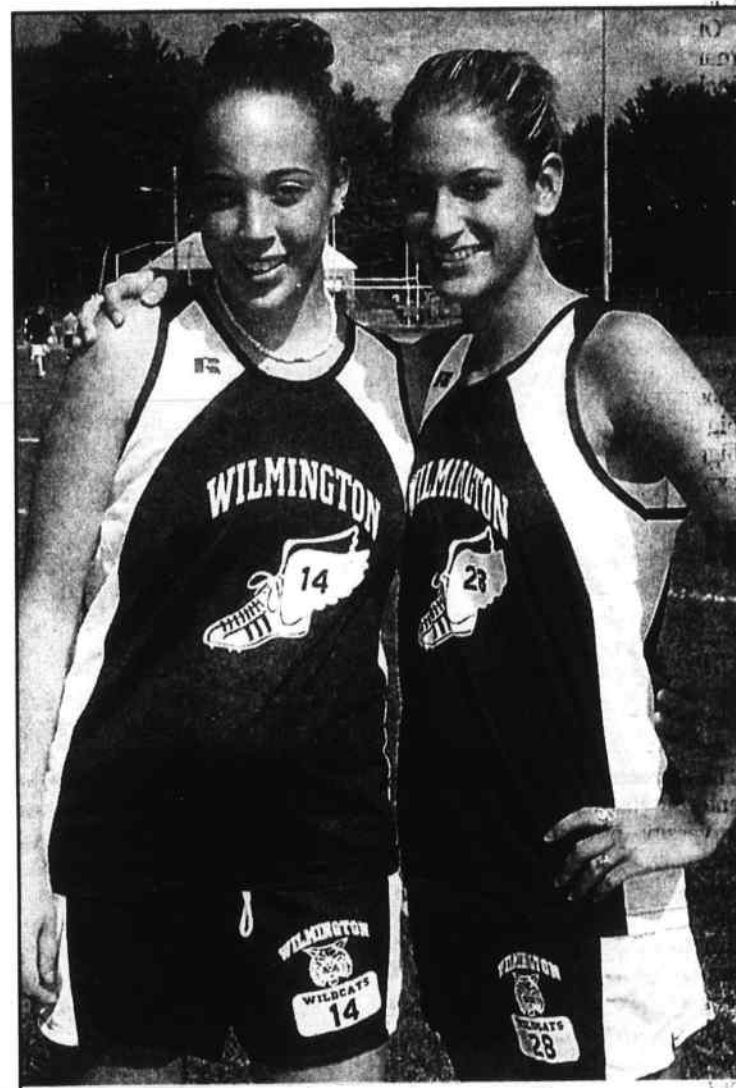

Sophomores Jessica Harrington and Sam MacDougall round out the rest of the squad.

"We ran against Austin Prep on Thursday and Liz did pretty decent and she finished third overall," said Bradley. "She's put her time in over the summer and she's the best on the team. After that, I'm not sure. Jessica was hurt and Sam had her first practice with us on Friday."

"But Kristine has come along. The first few days she struggled a bit, but since then she's really come on and improved. She's pretty determined and I think she'll be OK by the end of the season."

The Lady 'Cats begin the season with a tri-meet at home on Thursday with Lynnfield and Hamilton-Wenham coming to town. Bradley said it's probably the same group of teams, who'll be at the top of the Cape Ann League standings.

"Hamilton-Wenham, Triton and Newburyport are usually the three strongest teams," said Bradley.

Wilmington High girls cross country captains Liz Pettigrew, left, and Jen Loranger, right, hope several more girls come out for the team to make it easier for them.

Pettigrew's decision a wise one

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

At the time Liz Pettigrew probably wasn't feeling that great. Last year at this time she was cut from the field hockey program after playing her first two years with the freshmen and JV programs. She then decided to try another sport, so she joined up with the cross country team.

Now being involved in her second year with the new sport, the senior co-captain could be one of the top five runners that head coach Tom Bradley has had during his tenure which is just short of a decade.

"I've had some good runners over the years like Laura Winn, Barbara Tate, Michelle Brush and Melissa Marques, and Liz I'd say probably could be the fifth or sixth best runner I've had here," said Bradley. "She had a good season for us last year and was our second best runner. She has put in the time over the summer, running about five miles a day and she looks strong and sturdy."

"She does out workouts very well, and I think she can win some of the meets and probably finish third or fourth against some of the better teams. She's pretty good. She's quiet and laid back, but I get a kick out of her. She's clearly the class of the girls team."

Last year Pettigrew really didn't have much to worry about. She was a newcomer to the team, and she went about her business and tried the best she could. She ran the 3.1 mile courses usually in the 21 to 22 minute range and would like to get her time down to 20 minutes or below.

But to do that, she needs some help, or teammates pushing her which might be a difficult task especially at first. You see Pettigrew is just one of five members on this year's team.

"It's going and we do have enough people for races but we're hoping for more girls to come out for the team so we have a chance to win some meets," said Pettigrew. "We just can't be absent or anything because then we won't have enough to race."

Pettigrew has been a member of the indoor and outdoor track teams over the past three years. She started off doing the hurdles and after two years Bradley said she found her right event by switching to the two mile, where she has helped the teams scoring some points. That along with joining the cross country team seems to have Pettigrew locked up in distance running.

"(The cross country races) are different (than the track races) because you're out on the roads and I like that."

Even though the roster has just five runners on it, Pettigrew seems anxious to get this season going on Thursday when Hamilton-Wenham and Lynnfield come to town for a tri-meet.

"I really like our course because you're out on the road a lot more than the other courses," she said. "Most of the other ones you run through the woods, but we run on the roads a lot more and that's good."

Co-Captains jumping to new expectations

By SANDRA FLETCHER
Sports Correspondent

With a young new team, The Wilmington High girls volleyball team seems to be out to prove themselves this year on the court. Under the watchful eye of returning Coach Mark Staffier the Lady Wildcats are starting fresh with only three returning players. This year the captains are Kelley Lemke and Megan Godding, both juniors and members of last year's successful team which advanced to the Division 3 North quarterfinals.

As freshman both Godding and Lemke were on the junior varsity team but when the varsity team made the cut for the state finals, they were called upon by Staffier who felt they could be useful to the team in different situations.

"Both girls work really hard and with patience Kelley and Megan will help this team along," said Staffier. "Once we get things going, volleyball is a sport that moves quickly and these girls know that."

Growing up in Florida, Lemke has played volleyball her entire life. From the sand on the beach to the gym floor, it has been a constant passion for her and she feels glad to be apart of the Wildcat team. Godding on the other hand picked up a volleyball for the first time her freshman year and has yet to put that ball down.

"Under such an awesome coach and having a good time at practice and games, I liked volleyball right away," said Godding. "We are in a rebuilding season this year, but we have good team chemistry so we'll do just fine."

Lemke agrees with Godding in that this year is a rebuilding season, and with a few more girls that have great height the defense is something they are excited about. Lemke is the defensive specialist for the team but also enjoys hitting. Godding is the one and only setter on the team and focuses most of her attention on that aspect of the game.

"A lot goes on when you are on and off the court during games," said Godding. "Patience will be very important to our team chemistry so that our communication is top notch."

Both Lemke and Godding believe that being a good friends and team player is important to the game because communication is such an important aspect of the game.

"No problems and no drama will be most important for us," said Lemke. "So far we are a good team working on playing together and learning more about each other's styles."

As captains for the team Lemke and Godding plan on doing team building activities through out the season to build team morale and bonds of friendship. With some players not returning from last year, Lemke and Godding want to ensure the girls this year that they are a true team and everyone should have the comfortable feeling when coming to practice.

"We want everyone to focus on volleyball when they walk in the door to the gym," said Lemke. "I want our team to look forward to practice and games through out the day at school."

Some of the team activities that Lemke and Godding are planning are spaghetti dinners, pumpkin decorating and of course pushing all of Staffier's buttons.

"He's the best coach and everyone at the school loves him as a teacher and a coach," said Lemke. "He allows us to speak our mind and make decisions as a team."

Godding feels that Staffier is her best coach because of his ability to make his team understand the concept of the sport and his willingness to participate in the drills.

"We talk things out so there are no frustrations," said Godding. "He has a huge knowledge of the sport and helps us to understand the techniques and drills that make us prepare for the games."

When it comes to competing against other teams Lemke and Godding feel that being intimidating is a key part of the game.

"I want the opposing team to see us coming in and not recognize any one," said Lemke. "That way we can come together and prove ourselves to be a tough team to beat."

The first game of the season for the Lady Wildcats will be at Tewksbury Memorial High School against the Lady Redmen on Monday, Sept. 13. The girls are hoping for a win and Godding feels that it would really boost the team confidence.

"We know that we are young and new, but we think that we can come together and prove ourselves," said Godding. "A win would be nice, but we want to play well together and see the skills that we work so hard to perfect go into action."

Rams football team looking to continue where it left off

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech football team took a major step toward improvement last season, finishing with a winning record. The Rams finished 6-4 overall, including a thrilling 12-6 Thanksgiving Day victory over Greater Lowell, earning them a second place finish in the Commonwealth Athletic Conference Large Division. The Rams won their final two games of the season and went 4-2 down the stretch.

While Rams coach Al Costabile knows that momentum does not carry over from season to the next, he also feels that his team is headed in the right direction, and that began with last year's late season surge.

"We finished up strong with two big wins on the road and we felt good about that," Costabile said. "We've got a pretty good core group coming back and we are definitely looking to build on last year's success."

The Rams did lose some key players off of last year's squad, but as Costabile noted there is a nice group of experienced players coming back. The Rams return seven starters, many of whom will see action on both sides of the ball. In addition to the returning starter, the Rams also return five lettermen who saw significant playing time last season.

Offensively the Rams return many of their key weapons, including quarterback Chris Holak of Tewksbury. Holak (6-3, 170) a senior, took over the quarterback reins about halfway through last season and improved with each game, culminating in his game winning touchdown pass in the closing second on Thanksgiving.

"Chris did a nice job for us last year," Costabile said. "Winning those games late in the year was big for him and he has come back bigger and stronger this year. We expect big things from him."

Also returning will be the junior running back tandem of Kyle Marzeoti (5-10, 180) and Tewksbury native Ken Aalerud (5-9, 160). Both players contributed last season and on many teams Aalerud would be the young running back that has coaches excited and opponents frightened.

No doubt, Costabile and his staff are excited to have a back of Aalerud's talents on their squad, but the superstar here is Marzeoti, who rushed for 1,318 yards and 10 touchdowns last season. He also had two punt returns for touchdowns.

"Kyle is definitely the key to the offense. He really gives us an explosiveness, and he's very exciting to watch," Costabile said. "He has put on about 15 pounds of muscle in the off-season, but he still has great speed."

Senior fullback Fred Pafume (5-6, 205) rounds out the returning starters in the backfield. Other returning starters on offense will be senior tight end Pat Connor (6-3, 175) of Tewksbury, senior guard John McLaughlin (5-8, 180) and senior center Hank Chase (5-9, 230) of Tewksbury.

Three lettermen will also slide into starting spots on the offensive side of the ball. A pair of senior wide receivers from Wilmington, Kyle Browne (6-0, 175) and Tom Warford (5-11, 175) will provide excellent targets for Holak. Ron Raymond (5-10, 200) will round out the lettermen at guard.

Other starters on offense will be junior tackle Rich Doane (5-10, 260) and sophomore tackle Matt Innis (6-2, 250).

Many of the same players will also start on the defensive side of the ball. Marzeoti will start at safety, while Aalerud will start at cornerback. Holak will also see a lot of time in the defensive backfield. Browne will see a lot of time at the corner opposite Aalerud, but the likely starter will be junior Brendan McCarthy (5-10, 160), another returning letterman.

Connor will start at defensive tackle for the Rams, while the linebacker corps looks to be strong with the junior tandem of Joe Galvin (5-10, 200) and Andy Martinez (5-11, 160). Martinez is a returning letterman.

With so many talented players returning to the Rams fold this season, Costabile is very optimistic about his team's chances this season. In fact, it was difficult for him to point to a real weakness on his squad at this early date.

"I would say our biggest strength is that our team attitude is great, and also I think we have the ability to score a lot of points. I think we will be more explosive than we have been in the past," Costabile said. "I haven't really seen a weakness yet, but of course you always worry about your depth."

The Rams co-captains will be a pair of Tewksbury natives, Holak and Connor. The captains were chosen by their teammates. Holak, as the quarterback, seems an obvious choice as one of the captains, but Costabile says that is not the only reason he was selected.

"It's not automatic that a quarterback will be the captain," said Costabile. "Chris and Pat have both exhibited great leadership qualities and that is why they were chosen. They are good, solid leaders and their teammates saw that. They were both named on almost every ballot."

The captains, along with the rest of the Rams will have to be at their best to compete in the tough CAC Large. Shawsheen has to be considered one of the better teams in the league, but they are not alone.

"Tyngsboro will be tough, they always are," Costabile said. "I also think Lynn Tech and Greater Lowell will be better. They both have some good young players and will only get better. I think the league in general will be better than last year."

With the being said, as confident as Costabile is in his team's ability, he is not willing to make any predictions on a won-loss record for his team.

"I don't like to put a number on it, but our goal is to get better every year," Costabile said. We want to be strong in the league, and we want to have big November games. That's what you want as a football team."

Season opener begins with rival Arlington Catholic

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech football team will kick off their regular season Sunday afternoon at 1:30 when they take on Arlington Catholic High School. The game will be played at Minuteman Regional High School in Lexington, as Arlington Catholic's home field is being repaired and will not be ready until about the middle of the season.

Wherever the game is played, however, it should be a great battle. This will be the sixth consecutive season that the two non-league rivals will open the season against each other, and although the game will have no bearing on any league title hopes, the bragging rights for the winners are certainly something worth fighting for.

Arlington Catholic, a member of the Catholic Central Large, is a team and a program that is well respected by the Rams and coach Al Costabile. The Cougars posted a 10-1 record last season, narrowly missing out on a playoff berth, and one of those wins was a 32-14 rout of the Rams in the season opener. The Cougars, have in fact downed the Rams for the past two seasons, but prior to that, the Rams won two out of three meetings with the Cougars.

"It's developed into a rivalry," Costabile said. "They are a great fit for us. They were in the league I was in before I came here (as the coach at Bishop Fenwick) and being familiar with their team and their head coach has made it a nice fit. Serge Clivio runs a great, ethical program."

Costabile also coaches several of the Arlington Catholic players during his summer camps, so he is very familiar with the caliber of opponent his team will be facing. Many of the Cougars best players, including All-State receiver DJ Dolan, and All-Scholastic quarterback Pat Franey have graduated. The Cougars lost 20 seniors to graduation in all, but still return a talented cast which will include eight returning starters.

Junior quarterback Mike Lepore will have a big weapon to throw to in 6-5 245, senior tight end Tim Graham. Senior running back Nick Bates will also be a threat the Rams need to be aware of. The Rams do catch a bit of a break in that the Cougars number one running back, senior Casey Hamilton may not see significant playing time against them.

"Hamilton is just getting back into pads, so I am not sure we will see a lot of him," Costabile said. "He is going to be a real catalyst for them this season, but I am not sure we are going to get him at full speed."

The game will offer two contrasting styles of play. While the Rams strength is in running the ball behind a strong offensive line and superstar running back Kyle Marzeoti, the Cougars will provide a bit of a different look.

"They like to throw the ball and they do a good job of running the screen," Costabile said. "They run a lot of one back sets and like to spread it out. They are not a real black and blue team, whereas we are a little more physical."

And that spread style of offense was very effective for the Cougars last season against the Rams. Costabile knows his team will have to be prepared and shut them down as much as possible.

"We have to play our game against them. They jumped out quick on us last year and went up 21-0 and it really stopped us from playing our style," Costabile said. "We need to play real tough defense at the start and control the tempo of the game."

Last year the Rams got off to an 0-2 start before coming on strong later in the season. While Costabile has seen that is team has the ability to bounce back from a slow start, he does not want to see a repeat of last year.

"It's real important to get off to a good start," Costabile said. "I always think that the confidence of a team can be fragile, and a good start can do a lot to help that. September games are a big part of our goal of playing big November games. If we take care of business in September, we will be playing big games in November."

Higher expectations set for girls soccer squad

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech girls soccer team enters this season with the highest expectations in the brief history of their program. The expectations for the team entering just its fourth season as a varsity program come from their tremendous accomplishments last season, when they won their first ever Commonwealth Athletic Conference title by posting a 7-0-1 record within the league.

The Lady Rams finished 9-6-1 overall, a very successful season despite being eliminated in the first round of the Division 3 North tournament by Wayland. The great season was exactly what coach Jack Viveiros and the Lady Rams had hoped for, of course, but with that great season comes a bit of a target on your back. Every team in the league will be taking their best shot at the Lady Rams this season.

"Everybody wants to play us early. People figure they can beat us early in the season," Viveiros said. "It's different for us because we are used to looking up at a target instead of being the target. We have to adapt to a new role."

Helping the Lady Rams to adjust to that new role will be several returning starters including four CAC All-Stars. The returning All-Stars are senior halfbacks Ashley Robar and Jamie Chase, junior forward Erica Marsh and Wilmington's Shannon Proulx, a senior forward. Marsh was the team's leading scorer last season with 17 goals, while Proulx followed close behind with 15. The two will be starting forwards this season, along with sophomore Kyla O'Leary. Returning your two top scorers from a league championship team is something any coach would enjoy and Viveiros is certainly no exception.

"It's great to have those two coming back and Kyla has seen a lot of action as just a freshman last season," Viveiros said. "They're all working very hard to be even better this season."

Starting midfielders for the Lady Rams will be Tewksbury senior Jamie Chase, along with juniors Julie Mattly of Tewksbury and Kristie Ladd. Starting fullbacks will likely be Tewksbury junior Michelle Kelleher, along with seniors Ashley Robar and Gina Toccio, and sophomore Amanda Vacca.

The Lady Rams will have a pair of new faces in goal this season, and both players will also be new to varsity soccer. A pair of freshmen from Wilmington, Kim Stockton and Allie Ogden will battle for playing time and thus far both have made the decision difficult for Viveiros.

"At this point they are both equal and both look like they will do a fine job for us," Viveiros said. "We have not seen them under fire yet, which is the real test, but both of them like to play goal and are very aggressive which we like to see."

One of the biggest reasons for the Lady Rams success last season was their team first philosophy. Marsh and Proulx were the leading scorers of course, but the entire team contributed to their success. There was no one or two stars on the team and Viveiros will be looking for the same type of attitude this season.

"We are working very hard to keep that approach. As of right now they have certainly done that," Viveiros said. "What's good about this team is that it's not like there are two or three players coming back, we have seven or eight who know what it takes to win."

The number of quality players returning is what Viveiros feels is the Lady Rams biggest strength heading into the season.

"The number of veterans coming back certainly helps. It's nice to not have so many slots to fill. I don't need to fill a forward spot or even a fullback," Viveiros said. "As for a weakness, I might say the inexperience in goal, but I wouldn't really call that a weakness, it's just a question mark at this point."

One of the veterans that will be counted on most by Viveiros and the rest of the Lady Rams will be Robar, who has been named as the team's captain. Robar is a veteran of not only last year's league championship soccer team, but also the Lady Rams league championship softball team.

"Ashley helped us out a lot last year and this year she is really helping the team gel," Viveiros said. "We saw more of that with the softball team. She is a great example of the teamwork that helps this team excel."

Last year was obviously very successful, but there were a couple of goals the Lady Rams missed out on that they are using to motivate them for this year.

"One of the goals we did not accomplish last year was winning a game in the Vocational Tourney and we really felt like we were good enough to do that," Viveiros said. "We would also like to get a win in the state tournament, but for the most part we would like to be successful in the league once again."

Optimism surrounds Rams boys soccer team

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Don't blame Shawsheen Tech boys soccer coach Dick Barris if he is excited to get the season started. After all, the sixth year coach is in a position that is certainly unique to him and is probably unique to most every coach of any sport. Not only does he return all of his starters off of last year's 11-2-2 squad, but he returns every player from that team, both starters and reserves.

With such a returning cast, it is not surprising that Barris, along with many others feel that the best days are still ahead for the Rams.

"I think that would be a fair expectation. Now whether or not that happens remains to be seen," Barris said. "That's the way I feel and that's the way the players feel, but we will have to wait and see."

Returning as starting forwards for the Rams will be a pair of seniors, Kyle Patrie of Tewksbury and Jeremy Sawicki of Wilmington. Patrie led the team in scoring last season with 12 goals and four assists.

Other returning starters for the Rams will be sophomore forwards Chris Pazzanese, Dave Severino, Corey Fleishman and Mike Gray, senior midfielder Dan Reed of Tewksbury, junior defender Ed O'Neill of Wilmington, sophomore defender Corey Brooks and junior defender Rocco Puccio.

Coming off the bench for the Rams will be several locals, including Tewksbury natives, senior midfielders Adam Nichols, Jon Proulx and Chris Bradley. Wilmington natives on the team are senior forward Charlie Broussard and junior forward John Semonian.

One of the biggest key for the Rams will be starting goalie Rich Fantasia, a junior from Tewksbury. Fantasia is a three-year starter for the Rams and Barris expects big things from the veteran keeper this season.

"Rich had a very strong freshman season. Last year he played well, but not quite to the same level. He saw that and he came back with a whole new attitude this season," Barris said. "He's also a bigger kid this season, and he has developed into a very strong kicker. He's also got a great sense of playing the angles."

Fantasia will obviously be one of the Rams strengths, but he will certainly not be the only one, which is probably why Barris responded the way he did when asked to name his team's biggest strength and weakness.

"I think our biggest strength will obviously be having everybody back. When you have your first 15 players the same as last year you have to be strong," Barris said. "At this point the weakness may be that beyond Kyle I don't know who can really put the ball in the net for us. Hopefully, moving Jeremy up to the front will help with that."

Barris, however, has no questions about Patrie's ability to put the ball in the net. Patrie, of course, has plenty of natural ability, but that is not the only reason for his success.

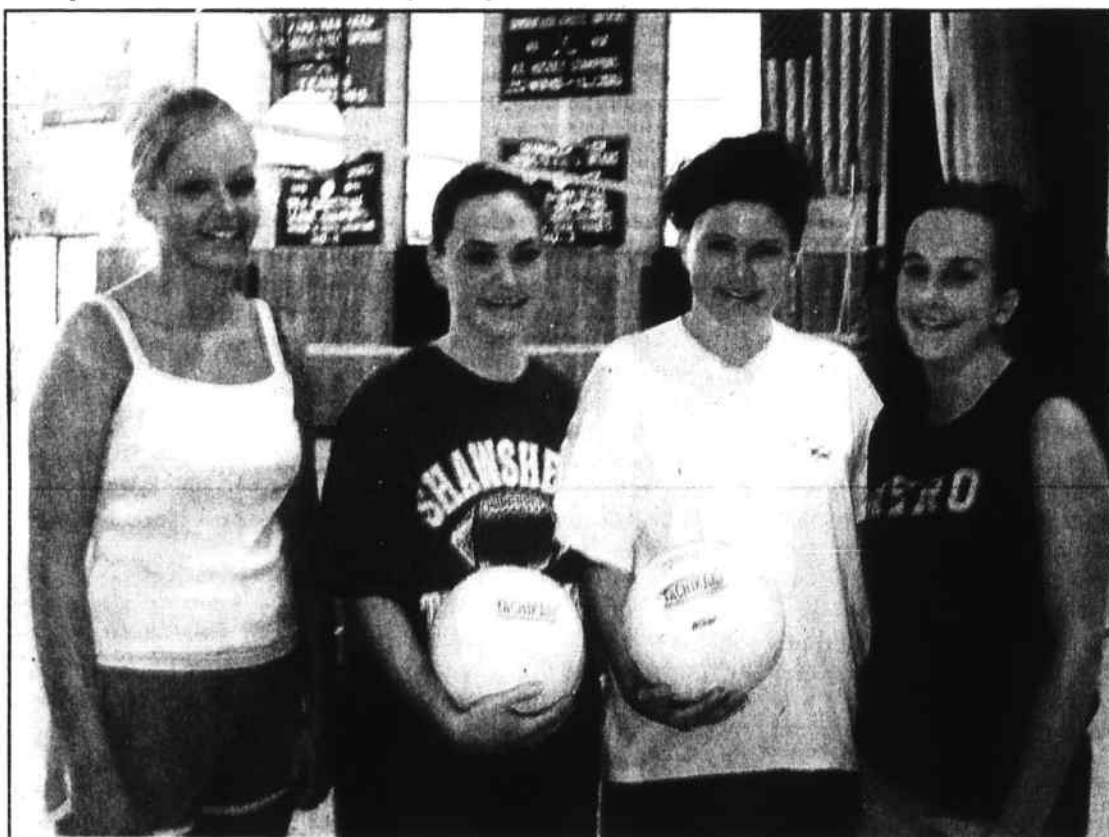

"Kyle's got a knack for the ball. He's got a real good understanding of what it takes," Barris said. "He's played a lot of soccer in his life and worked very hard to become the player he is. He's a hard working kid and that hard work has paid off on many occasions."

Although last season had many high for the Rams one of the few down moments was their first round exit on the Division 2 North Tournament, where they were eliminated by Dracut High by a score of 7-1. The Rams have now made five consecutive trips to the tournament, but with all of the talent returning this season, Barris sees a trip to the tournament as a minimum expectation for his team.

"I always tell the guys that I expect to qualify for the states. But all you need for that is a .500 record," Barris said. "This year I feel we have a shot to win the CAC Lower, challenge the Upper Division teams and also win a tournament game."

Volleyball team looking for success again

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech volleyball team enters this season on the heels of a tremendous season last year. The Lady Rams finished the season with a 14-10 record including 10-6 in the Commonwealth Athletic Conference which was good enough for a third place finish behind Greater Lawrence and Presentation of Mary Academy.

Better than their regular season record, however was their performance in the post season. The Lady Rams advanced to the semi-finals of the Division 3 North Tournament before falling to eventual sectional champ Notre Dame. Their tournament run included a second round win over top seeded Nazareth.

Shawsheen also advanced to the finals of the State Vocational Tournament. There is a great feeling around the squad as the new season begins. Coach Chet Flynn knows it will not be easy to repeat last year's dramatics with the loss of two of the team's top players in co-captains Jackie Raymond and Katie Russo, but he is excited to get started.

"I don't know if we can improve on last year with all we accomplished. We had a pretty good run," Flynn said. "We are in a similar situation to the beginning of last year when we only had two returning players. This year we have three returning and we will fill in around them."

The tournament wins from last year should have a positive effect on the returning players as well as the entire team, Flynn said.

"It gave them a taste of what that can be like," Flynn said. "The games were action packed and the crowds were really into it. It gave them a taste of the pressure situation and makes them want to do it again."

The three returning starters for the Lady Rams are senior hitters Cailyn McLaughlin of Tewksbury, Melissa Tello of Wilmington and Emily Halas. Flynn was actually expecting two more players with significant experience to be on this year, squad, but Nicole Crowley transferred to Wilmington High, while Tewksbury native Tiffany Ahearn moved to Methuen. Halas, McLaughlin and Tello will also serve as tri-captains for the team.

"We have several kids to fill in spots that have been with the program, but have not played at all for the varsity," Flynn said. "We will need these three to step into leadership roles for us. I think they are capable of doing that."

Other starters for the Lady Rams will be senior hitter Kristine Elwell of Tewksbury. Elwell was with the team as a sophomore, but missed last season due to injury and should make a very positive impact on the starting rotation.

A pair of seniors, Robin LaLicata and Tina Morin will be asked to step into a larger role this season.

"Robin and Tina are a couple of JV players who saw some action for us in the tournament as servers and did a really nice job," Flynn said. "We'll be looking for them to give us significant minutes this year."

Senior Brittany Boutwell, junior Lindsey Condon of Tewksbury, junior Stephanie Warren and sophomore Jacqueline Salemi will also likely see a lot of playing time for the Lady Rams. Despite the inexperienced roster, Flynn has seen some things from this group that he feels will be an improvement over last year's team.

"Our serving looks stronger this year than last year. We have no dominant server like we did last year, but one through six we are very strong," Flynn said. "We should also be very strong defensively."

The Lady Rams, like most teams, will not be without their weaknesses, however.

"Our weakness this year is the same thing we face from year to year in that we don't have a lot of size and will not be able to do much power hitting or blocking," Flynn said. "We will have to play great defense to keep the ball alive."

Hopefully the strengths will outweigh the weaknesses as the Lady Rams try to make a run for the top of the CAC, but it will not be easy given the strength of competition within the loop.

"PMA is always tough. They just restock every year. They always seem to be the team to beat," Flynn said. "Chelsea will be very different as well and could surprise some people, and of course Greater Lawrence and Greater Lowell will be very strong as always."

As they head into the season, Flynn is making no predictions as to if his team will equal last year's feats, but there are some things he hopes to see from his squad.

"My goal is to see us get better as the game goes on. Of course you want to qualify for the state tournament as well, and if that means 10-10 and we are improving than so be it," Flynn said. "Hopefully we will work hard, get seven or eight kids into a rotation and get better and more confident as the year goes on."

"Lifestyle retail centers" are coming

By PAUL FEELY

The wave of the future, as far as shopping centers go, is about to wash over the Middlesex East area in a big way.

Major retail developments are under construction and in the planning stages at several locations throughout the region, and none of them are the typical, big box-type enclosed malls that dominated the landscape in the 1980s. Rather, they fall into a category that has become a buzzword in the retail universe as of late

- the 'lifestyle retail' center.

The Crossing at Walkers Brook in Reading, located just off Exit 39 on Route 128 near the Reading/Wakefield line, as well as plans for the former Raytheon property, located at 2 Wayside Road (and runs alongside Route 128 off Cambridge Street in Burlington) are two prime examples of this new fad, catering to shoppers' desires to meet and greet while shopping in prime outlets. But what exactly is the definition of 'lifestyle retail'?

THE CROSSING AT WALKERS BROOK in Reading, shown upper left, and the former Raytheon property, in Burlington, shown above, are two local examples of a new fad called "lifestyle retail" centers. These centers cater to shoppers' desires to socialize while shopping in prime outlets.

What is 'Lifestyle Retail' anyway?

A decline in the traditional mall or strip-mall over the past two decades has been followed by an increase in the popularity of new retail centers called "Lifestyle Retail" centers. These centers represent a departure from previous retail development that was often focused more on attracting and maintaining the relationship with the retail tenant than with the customer. Unlike previous retail development, a lifestyle retail center is meant to customize its environment to the changing lifestyle of the consumer in order to make it a stimulating and social place to gather.

The following summarizes an article titled "Lifestyle

Retail" from the February 2004 issue of Urban Land. While many examples of this type of development are from new projects in large cities, many existing main streets and business districts have an opportunity to reposition themselves as lifestyle centers.

Features of a Lifestyle Center

In most cases, lifestyle retail centers are open-air, main street-like developments with higher-quality architecture that focus on certain retail sectors and blend mixed-uses typical of a traditional main street. These are pedestrian-friendly centers where consumers can gather in public spaces and feel part of a community. The centers are vibrant places where people can live, work, play and shop.

A mixture of uses is typically included such as residential, office space, hotels, churches, theaters and municipal facilities such as libraries. A residential component is especially important as it adds density to the project (helping to justify land costs) and extends its hours of operation (unlike the defined hours of a shopping mall). In many ways, these new centers are attempting to recreate the traditional city center environment within the shopping center. As a result of the added amenities found in a lifestyle center, there are more reasons for consumers to visit and stay longer. The longer people stay, the more they spend.

The Market for Lifestyle Centers

Lifestyle retail centers are a result of "changing demographics, urban revitalization, a lack of traditional mall development, heightened competition, and bored consumers." As a result, retail developers have had to come up with unique developments

Movie Reviews by Paul Feely

"BENJI: OFF THE LEASH"

MOVIE: "BENJI: OFF THE LEASH"
GRADE: *

The hairy little hero from a series of movies in the 1970s returns to the big screen in this new children's adventure.

The story centers around a puppy, different from the rest of the litter, who is left for dead by a man illegally breeding dogs. The dog is secretly raised by the man's son, and eventually goes on to be chosen as the new 'Benji' following a nationwide search by a movie producer. Along the way, the dog finds a home for a stray, helps the boy and his mother deal with the abusive dog peddler, and manages to save his own mother from certain death.

The dogs are very well trained, and the movie actually touches upon some darker issues like family abuse and animal abuse, but doesn't dig deep enough to scare smaller children.

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "EXORCIST: THE BEGINNING"
GRADE: NO STARS
WHATSOEVER

If you are a horror fan, come in the Reading Chronicle offices and see me before having some coffee on any given day - the sight before your eyes will be more terrifying than any visual director Renny Harlin has put on the big screen in this mess of a movie.

Not only should this one be avoided at the movie theaters, but if you are a fan of 'The Exorcist' at all, you shouldn't even walk into a store that's selling it once it eventually hits the streets on DVD, which will probably be within 10 days based on its opening weekend box office take ($18 million). The fact that this movie shares anything with that classic example of movie horror at its best is more blasphemous than anything that came out of Linda Blair's mouth.

MOVIE: "ALIEN VS. PREDATOR"
GRADE: **

Two Hollywood heavyweight science fiction series collide head-on in this so-so sci-fi action movie.

This movie has little to do with the 'Alien' or 'Predator' movies that have come before them (in fact, the current plotline apparently disregards the other 'Alien' movies entirely, as it is set in present-day 2004 - therefore, the human race would know about the alien killing machines well before they encounter them, supposedly for the first time, in the far-off future of the first 'Alien' movie).

Imagine that the Earth has been used for centuries as a kind of paintball arena, with the Predators using the Aliens as prey in a winner-take-all battle that apparently takes place every 100 years, and you have the basic premise behind this one.

The acting is nothing special, and director Paul W. S. Anderson takes way too long setting up the very flimsy relationships between the human characters before getting to what everyone who plunked down their money is waiting to see - a brawl to end it all between these two killing machines. The movie picks up once the fighting starts, but there's not enough of these scenes to salvage it.

MOVIE: "THE VILLAGE"
GRADE: ***

Director M. Night Shyamalan has once again presented a film where much more is going on than the basic plotline.

The story centers around a colonial village (headed up

Musical NINE at North Shore theatre

The North Shore Music Theatre is turning up the heat with the production of the award-winning musical NINE.

This sophisticated and sexy musical is written by Arthur Kopit and Maurv Yeston, the creators of other stage productions like Titanic, Grand Hotel and Phantom.

Performances of NINE are currently ongoing through September 12.

NINE revolves around Guido

Contini, a film director in the Fellini mold. Having just suffered through several box office flops, Contini attempts to write and direct a new film but is unable to come up with a suitable plot.

Drifting toward a nervous breakdown, Guido finds himself examining his past flawed relationships with the many women who have come and gone through his life and struggling to act mature for his age of forty as opposed to age nine.

NINE contains adult subject matter and is recommended for mature audiences only.

"NINE is unlike any other musical we're producing this year," explained Jon Kimbell, the North Shore Music Theatre's Artistic Director and Executive Producer.

Kimbell added, "The story is very provocative and intriguing and I thought it was a perfect choice for our theatre."

At the North Shore Music Theatre, Robert Newman is set to lead the cast of NINE.

Robert Newman has won over legions of fans with his first award-winning portrayal of Joshua Lewis on Guiding Light.

The popular actor, who first appeared on the CBS daytime drama in 1981, has also worked extensively in the Los Angeles theatre, playing lead roles in musicals such as The Robber Bridegroom, Guys and Dolls, and Bye Bye Birdie.

Newman has also played in other diverse roles in productions that include Veronica's Room, Titus Adronicus, The Owls and the Pussycat, Medea and The Rainmaker.

Tickets for NINE are priced from $30 to $63. Performances are on Tuesday through Saturday, at 8:00 p.m., and on Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday at 2:00 p.m.

Visit the box office in person, located at 62 Dunham Road in Beverly.

To purchase tickets or for additional information, go online to the North Shore Music Theatre's official website at www.nsmmt.org or call 978-232-7200.

Bay State Strutters at Universal Studios

The Bay State Strutters Baton Twirling Corps is thrilled to have received an invitation to perform at Universal Studios-Orlando in December. The twirlers and their families will travel to Florida at the end of the year to twirl at City Walk, an entertainment complex located between both Universal parks. Members from 7 to 17 are looking forward to what promises to be an experience to remember.

Invitations such as this are not unusual for the Strutters. In the 70s, the group performed during Boston's giant Bicentennial celebrations. In the 80s, they toured the Costa Del Sol, Spain, marched in Knoxville, TN at the World's Fair, and performed at Opryland, TN and at the Capitol in Washington, D.C. In the 90s, the twirlers participated in the world famous Mummies Parade in Philadelphia, as well as the Magic Kingdom Disney World Parade.

And last year, members of the All-Star team marched in the Miss America Pageant kickoff parade on the boardwalk in Atlantic City. This month, the All-Stars will be making a repeat performance in this 3 mile parade. The parade showcases each of the state's Miss America contestants riding in convertibles down the boardwalk wearing fabulously decorated shoes that they show to the cheers of the audience.

The Strutters is now accepting new members for its teams in Woburn, Danvers and Newton. Find out more about the group at www.msmaaj.com or call coach Tracey Gangi at 781-985-1190 to ensure a spot on one of the teams.

UP, DOWN, AND CONTINUING WITH PRIDE

Onward and upward in Wilmington

"Pomp and circumstance took center stage during the Wilmington Police Department's Promotion and Recognition Ceremony," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"Police Chief Robert Spencer and Town Manager Michael Caira presided over the event, during which three members of the Wilmington Police Department were promoted and four local Auxiliary Police Officers were recognized."

"Michael R. Begonis was promoted from the rank of Lieutenant to Deputy Chief. He was described by Caira as the perfect complement to Chief Spencer."

"He has certainly proven himself over his years of service to be very competent and to be someone upon whom the community can rely to lead the department," Caira told the room filled with family, friends and coworkers on the force.

"Begonis started with the Wilmington Police Department in July of 1988 after spending several years as an auxiliary officer."

"This is a department of 40-some-odd people, and I will work hard for them and to make sure that they get the credit they deserve for the good work that they do," Begonis said during a telephone interview.

"He is looking forward to the opportunity to continue working closely with Chief Spencer whom he describes as a mentor and close friend."

"Michael Begonis is a very dedicated, compassionate, and service oriented police officer," Spencer told the Town Crier.

"Former Sergeant Christopher J. Neville was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant during the ceremony. He started out as a Patrolman a little more than 26 years ago and has been a sergeant for approximately 13 years."

"I'm very fortunate to receive this promotion due to the level of competition that was up for the promotion," Neville said after the ceremony. "I am very honored to have been selected."

"Spencer describes Neville as having a wealth of knowledge in all aspects of police work...."

"David M. McCue, Jr., was promoted from the rank of Patrolman to Sergeant."

"I am looking forward to this new chapter in my life," said McCue, who has been with the Wilmington Police Department for 9 years....

"Lieutenant Robert Beals, Sergeant Ralph Plumer, Sergeant Edward Thompson and Sergeant Charles Rooney of the Wilmington Auxiliary Police Department were also honored with plaques in recognition of their many years of service to the Town of Wilmington...."

"Caira described the Auxiliary Police as unsung heroes."

"The town is very grateful for the work that they do," Caira said. "They are a tremendous complement to the Wilmington Police Department."

Trying to get ahead in Winchester and beyond

"The Commonwealth's largest small-business advocacy group, NFIB, called on Massachusetts legislators to use a substantial portion of the unexpected $712 million state revenue surplus to enact an economic stimulus package to encourage the creation of jobs in the state's economy," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Small businesses from Winchester and across Massachusetts will create the thousands of new jobs that we need if they are given the tools by state government," said NFIB Massachusetts state director Bill Vernon. "An economic stimulus package that includes a reduction in the state income tax rate from 5.3% to 5 percent would send a message that the Massachusetts state government appreciates and understands the critical role of small businesses in the state's economy."

"Most small businesses pay their taxes like individuals - through the state income tax," he said.

"Many Winchester businesses are members of NFIB."

reduction in the income tax rate to 5 percent would fulfill a political promise, but more significantly would spur the creation of new jobs in the 200,000 small businesses in Massachusetts. And in this period of economic recovery, such a tax cut would be fiscally responsible while leaving at least $400 million to renew funding for local education and other necessary social programs...."

by William Hurt and Sigourney Weaver), where the residents are isolated from the world around them and live in fear of the creatures that dwell in the woods surround their hamlet. When a young boy dies because he didn't receive the proper medical treatment, a young man, Lucius Hunt (played by Joaquin Phoenix) offers to venture through the woods to a nearby town to retrieve medicine so that others may live in the future.

Without giving too much away of the trademark Shyamalan surprise ending (this is the same director that gave us 'The Sixth Sense'), the story at first appears to be a horror movie, but ends up being a sociological examination how a society copes with fear, and how that fear can be used to control people, a very interesting concept given the current climate in the world, where a terror threat level can be raised at any time and society is placed on heightened alert.

This is a movie about much more than simply bogeymen or things that go bump in the night.

MOVIE: "THE MANCHURIAN CANDIDATE"
GRADE: ***

Director Jonathan Demme has created a remake that is worthy of the original, with enough of a twist to keep fans of the first film guessing until the final frame.

Denzel Washington plays

Major Ben Marco, the leader of a unit during the Gulf War in 1991 which disappears for a few days during a routine mission, and reappears with two soldiers dead and one, Captain Raymond Prentiss Shaw (played by Liev Schreiber) who is given the Medal of Honor for his heroic actions in saving the rest of the unit. The only problem is, no one else in the unit can remember these heroic actions, including Shaw himself.

Marco begins to believe that Shaw (and he) are victims of mind control by scientists from Manchurian Global, a company that profits by selling supplies to military operations, in an effort to get a sleeper agent into the White House. Shaw is a Vice Presidential candidate, and an unwilling one at that, thanks to the efforts of his mother, Senator Ellie Prentiss (played by Meryl Streep).

The story is set in the hear and now, at the conclusion of a major party's political convention (remember the DNC). Washington is very good as Marco, who is managing to keep a very loose grip on his sanity, and Schreiber is excellent as Shaw, a tortured soul that has been turned into a killing machine by those he loves.

MOVIE: "THE BOURNE SUPREMACY"
GRADE: ***

Matt Damon is back as Jason Bourne in this sequel to 'The Bourne Identity', based on characters created by author Robert Ludlum.

When we last saw Bourne, the amnesiac assassin was slipping off with his girlfriend to attempt to live a life away from the government that trained him, but this time out it appears the high-ups just can't leave him alone. He is framed in the murder of two CIA agents, and suddenly must clear his name as well as continue to seek out clues to the terrible deeds of his past.

Damon has proven to be an intellectual action hero, and is very believable as the complex, and confused, Bourne. The plot doesn't waste anytime in sucking you in, and it definitely helps if you have seen the first film.

This is a smart spy thriller, a cut above much of the summertime fluff out there.

CREATIVE ARTS OPEN HOUSE

Join Creative Arts for its Fall Open House Saturday, September 11 from 2 - 4 p.m. Early childhood music demonstrations, instrument petting zoo, open art room, Suzuki information room, registration for all classes and lessons, and a free concert at 3 p.m. For more information call 781-942-9600 or visit www.creativeartsforkids.org.

Creative Arts is a non-profit community school of the arts, and a member of the National Guild of Community Schools of the Arts. It is supported in part by grants from the Mass. Cultural Council, the Reading Cultural Council and many generous corporations, foundations and individuals.

The location is 25 Woburn Street, Reading, inside the First Congregational Church.

COME SING IN NORTH READING

The North Reading Community Chorale welcomes new members to its annual Open House on Monday, September 13.

Social time 7 p.m., Rehearsal time 7:30-9:30 p.m. They meet at the Aldersgate United Methodist Church, 235 Park St., (Rte 62) in North Reading. No auditions or experience is necessary.

Each year they produce a Christmas concert and spring shows for the public, friends and family.

Visit www.nrcc.us or call Nancy at 978-664-4800 for more information.

LANDSCAPES IN OILS DEMONSTRATION

The Woburn Guild of Artists sponsors its first painting demonstration of the 04/05 calendar season. The artist for this demo will be Harold Kloongian. The public is welcome to attend and there will be refreshments.

The date is Thursday, September 23 at 7 p.m.

Harold Kloongian is a native of Massachusetts and received his art education at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, the Art Institute of Boston, B.U. and private studies with Emile Gruppe, John Kile, Edgar Whitney, Carl Nelson and Frank Rines.

He will demonstrate to Guild members how he paints Landscapes in Oils at the New Horizons Terrace Lounge, on Warren Ave in Woburn.

SQUARE DANCE CLASSES IN WOBURN

Single Squares offers fall beginners classes starting Thursday, September 16 with Basic Squares at 7:30 p.m., Round Dance beginners at 7 p.m., plus workshop at 9 p.m. It is taught by Bill and Carol McGee.

Join for a full evening of fun and friendship. All ages welcome. No partner needed.

The location is St. Anthony's Hall, 1020 Main St. (Rte 38) Woburn.

For information call Bev at 781-272-4185 or Dan at 781-933-0320. The cost is $5 per person.

RUMMAGE SALE LIKE NEVER BEFORE

Old South Methodist Church will sponsor a Rummage Sale on Saturday, Sept. 25 from 9 to 3 p.m. It will be at 6 Salem St in Reading (the church with the clock at the top of the Town Common), and will feature household items, clothes, toys, decorations and furniture. All proceeds go to Old South's programs. Items for donation are welcome.

Judy Avtges, co-chair of the fundraiser says the proceeds are critical to Old South this year. "We are calling it a Rummage Sale Like Never Before because the Church has not done one of these in 4 years and they are coming back with gusto and lots of goods."

Donated items may be brought to the church the few days before the sale or to arrange a pick up call 781-944-AMEN.

40 DAYS OF PURPOSE

The colorful banner hanging over the front entrance of the First Parish Congregational Church of Wakefield, the stone church on Lake Quannapowitt reads: 40 Days of Purpose, "What on earth am I here for?". So, now many of the hundreds of people who walk the lake each day are asking the question, "What on earth is 40 Days of Purpose?"

On Saturday, Sept. 11 from 9 to noon, First Parish volunteers will be at the front walkway of the church distributing water to physically thirsty walkers and providing 40 Days printed materials and information to spiritually hungry passers by.

Based on the New York Times #1 best selling non-fiction book, "The Purpose Driven Life", the 40 Days program was written by Pastor Rick Warren to help people grow spiritually and discover why they were put here on this earth.

More than 200 of First Parish' church family have read Warren's book. They understand better now "what on earth they are here for" and they want others to understand too. Church member, Barbara Flynn said, "All good things are meant to be shared. What we have read in "The Purpose Driven Life: has changed our lives. It's just too good and too important to keep to ourselves!"

For additional information call 781-245-1539.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED FOR HOMELESS CHILDREN

Horizons for Homeless Children is seeking volunteers to interact and play with children living in family homeless shelters in northeastern Mass. A commitment of 2 hours a week for 6 months is required.

The children benefit greatly from this type of consistency. There are both day and evening volunteer shifts available during the week.

Before placing volunteers in shelter's play space training in issues surrounding homelessness and child development is provided.

These trainings are held regularly and upcoming dates are listed at www.horizonsforhomelesschildren.org or contact Kali Downer at 978-557-2182.

An eight session course in Photography will be given at the Greater Lynn Photographic Assn., 564 Boston St. Lynn, starting Tuesday, Oct. 19 at 7:30 p.m. and continuing each Tuesday to Dec. 7.

The cost is $65 with pre-registration and $70 for registration at the door on the 19th.

For details and registration call Mary at 978-777-5296.

THRIFT SHOW

CELEBRATES 30 YEARS

On Wednesday, Sept 15 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tower Exchange Thrift Show, located in the basement of Centre Congregational Church in Lynnfield will open its doors for the 30th year.

A group of church women started the shop in 1974 and it has grown steadily ever since.

The shop carries clothes for women, men, children and infants as well as a variety of white elephant items.

On Tuesday, Sept 14 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. the shop will open only to receive clothes and white elephant articles. The clothes should be for fall or winter wear and should be clean, up to date and in good repair.

These articles can be brought in on consignment or donated. White Elephant articles are accepted as donations only.

The Thrift Shop is open only on Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. from Sept. to the middle of May, except during school vacations and holidays and inclement weather.

NSCC'S 7TH ANNUAL SCHOLARSHIP OPEN

North Shore Community College's 7th annual Scholarship Open will be held Monday, Sept 27 at the Gannon Golf Course, Lynn. The cost for the 18 hole shotgun scramble is $125 and includes 18 holes of golf, cart, and dinner. Lots of great prizes too.

All proceeds to directly to the NSCC Foundation, Inc. for student scholarships. Sponsorship opportunities are still available.

For further information call 978-762-4000, ext 5483/5482.

LA LECHE LEAGUE TO MEET SEPT. 27

Mothers who wish to breast-feed their babies will find encouragement and information at the Melrose-Stoneham La Leche League meetings. The next meeting is Monday, Sept 27 from 10 to noon at the Melrose Public Library 69W Emerson St, Melrose, downstairs in the children's Meeting Room. Pregnant women and nursing babies are welcome.

La Leche League offers mother-to-mother support at its monthly meetings based on the womanly art of breastfeeding.

For Breast Cancer Research GMAC Real Estate moves into full swing with annual golf tourney

WOBURN - With an eye to raising money "fore" a good cause, Patricia Bell, president and CEO of Carlson GMAC, Kinlin Grover GMAC and Hammond GMAC Real Estate, announced today the date of Monday, Sept. 27, for the 6th Annual Charitable Cup Invitational Golf Tournament.

This year's event will be held at the Pinehills Golf Club in Plymouth and will feature a Celebrity Pro-Am tournament with some of New England's favorite sports and media personalities.

40 and 55. Ms. Bell explains, "The defeat of this devastating illness is a shared challenge between researchers tirelessly working to find a cure and the support of groups like our Carlson, Hammond and Kinlin Grover GMAC Real Estate Offices holding events of this nature."

Each GMAC Real Estate office is committed to raising money through a number of in-house office events. These events include raffles, auctions, yard sales, ice cream drives, bake sales, and some offices even set up a "toll booth" for employees coming to work.

An example of one especially successful event was the recent comedy night hosted by the GMAC Real Estate corporate office in Woburn at the Giggles Comedy Club at the Prince Pizzeria in Saugus. The evening netted over $2,000!

Ms. Bell shares, "The Jimmy Fund and Dana-Farber are very important and worthwhile organizations and we regard it an honor to work and raise money on their behalf. Office fundraising events are a great way to engage many different people in a common goal: here we not only heighten awareness about breast cancer, but help raise money for the cause and provide our agents with a terrific fun, team-building endeavor."

Sponsorship opportunities for the GMAC Real Estate 6th Annual Charitable Cup Invitational Golf Tournament are available and include hole flags, closest to the pin and more. Individual golfers, as well as foursomes, are invited to participate. For information, please contact Joe Burnieika at 617.592.1304 or joe@htr-hoston.com.

As part of the day's activities, participants can enjoy a silent and live auctions, raffles, golf clinics conducted by more than a dozen PGA professionals, a golf tournament and dinner.

The auction will feature a celebrity host and the Pro-Am tournament will include former USA Hockey Olympics Gold Medal winners Mike Eruzione and Jim Craig; celebrity chef, Ming Tsai; former Boston Bruins legends Bobby Orr, Ray Bourque, Gary Doak and Ken Hodge; and New York Giants Super Bowl champ Mark Bavarro, to name a few.

GMAC Real Estate's Invitational Golf Tournament is the culmination of a year's worth of fundraising by the company's 57-office network and more than 1,200 agents located throughout Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire.

Proceeds from the tournament and the various office events are donated to the Jimmy Fund and Dana-Farber Cancer Institute to benefit breast cancer research. Last year, GMAC Real Estate presented the Jimmy Fund with more than $75,000, and since 1999 has raised and donated nearly $1/4 million to both organizations.

Breast cancer is the second leading cause of death for all women and the leading cause of death in women between the ages of

Teeing off to fight prostate cancer

Make every swing count by joining the Friends of Dana-Farber Cancer Institute at the 4th Annual P.A.R.T. (Prostate Awareness for Research and Treatment) Golf Classic at the Pinehills Country Club in Plymouth on Monday, Sept. 13.

The Golf Classic, beginning with a round of golf and ending with dinner and an auction, will benefit the Friends of Dana-Farber's initiative to help find a cure for prostate cancer. Reservations begin at $550 for an individual play.

For more information or to sign up for the Golf classic call 617-632-3021 or www.partgolfclassic.org. Tickets for the dinner and auction only are also available for $100 per person.

Elvis Day September 18

The Silver Anniversary Reunion of Elvis Presley Day presented by Dan Pelly to benefit Aleppo Shriners will be held Saturday, Sept. 18 from 5 to 9 p.m. at Joanne Pellegrini Park (formerly Hawthorn Park) on Hawthorn St., off Watertown St. Rte 16, Newton. Adults $10, under 14 $5.

The main event will be the Monk Pelly show with his band in concert. "The King of Elvis Tributes" will be performing a 2 hour live power packed Las Vegas style act (a live recreation of Elvis in concert.) with Country Singer Mark Nkiethammer, a surprise comic from the comedy Connection, and a Karate Exhibition. Also an exciting raffle with four Elvis Prizes, the 1st place winner rides in the limousine after the show with Monk Pelly for a personal picture and autograph.

Elvis Day started in 1979 and is the biggest Elvis Tribute around. This year is the 25th Anniversary and Elvis' 50th anniversary of his first recording 7/5/54 "That's All Right Mama" the birth of Rock & Roll.

Investigation Program in the first and second grades.

"As part of Goal three, the system will continue to realign the curriculum of the Middle School English Language Arts with the coordination of grades 7 and 8 and the development of assessment tools for the grade 8 program. Goal three also includes the linking of the grade nine integrated science program with the half-year upper level courses, in order to prepare students for the newly adopted Science MCAS test for grade 10, or possibly grade 11.

"Goal four sets up measures to ensure that all students have a mastery of basic skills. To that end, the System will improve student access to Successmaker computer software; continue the work on the identification of 'Power Standards'; improve the system-wide template for standards-based instructional units; and expand the implementation of school-wide scoring rubrics for all curriculum areas...."

MANY STEPS FORWARD

Bringing in the sheaves: a North Reading tradition

"A week after school was over, the word was out: The Batchelder's second wheat crop was ready to harvest!" notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Thirty of last year's third graders, accompanied by parents and siblings, answered the call. After learning how to harvest the wheat and make the sheaves, the students fanned out around the golden field and began to snip off the handfuls of wheat stalks with scissors. Until a scythe with a grain cradle can be secured, this labor intensive method is the most efficient way of harvesting the wheat.

"As the handfuls of grain accumulated, parents tied them into sheaves. After 45 minutes of cutting, a patch of stubble stood where the wheat had grown. Performing one of the tasks of colonial children, half a dozen students then gleaned the field for any wheat that had been missed during the harvesting. Finally, the students built four large 'stooks' out of their sheaves, which is how early farmers would have dried their wheat in the field.

"The wheat that was grown this year is a gift to next year's third graders, who will have to figure out how to thresh and winnow it and how to make flour and bread from it. While the field at Batchelder School will lie fallow for two years, the third grade teachers hope to find a parcel of land at the Old Central School in Stoneham that will allow the Batchelder Wheat Project to continue."

Ready, set, goals: Tewksbury

"The school department's System Wide Goals for the 2004-2005 academic year were unveiled to the School Committee during a meeting," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"The 21 goals detailed in the report represent the third year's work on the current five-year strategic plan. They are the result of a collaboration between the School Committee and the Administrative Council that took place during the 12th Annual Joint Year-end Retreat held on June 16, 2004.

"The five-year plan organizes yearly goals into four areas, which are Curriculum and Instruction, School and Community, School Resources, and Program Improvement.

"The first seven of this year's System Wide Goals fall within Curriculum and Instruction.

"Goal one focuses on the Guided Reading Program in grades one through four and re-establishing a pre- and post-testing program in the subject of Reading at the John F. Ryan School.

"Goal two states the system's intention to fully implement the Math TERC

Lifestyle Retail

that offer consumers something that other shopping centers cannot. A popular way to do this is to bundle shops next to each other in the same retail segment drawing a specific targeted consumer to the development. While many lifestyle centers are being created in suburban areas, there are other opportunities for creating a lifestyle center from an abandoned mall or a deteriorating downtown.

Interestingly enough, both local projects originally started out as office space proposals, but a decline in the market has led developers to switch gears.

"There were several office-related proposals associated with the Reading site when we became involved," said William O'Brien, President of Pinnacle Partners, one of two groups (along with Dickinson Development) chosen to develop the site of Reading's former landfill. "But I looked at it, and its location right next to 128, and I knew that it would be perfect for retail."

The project at the Raytheon site requires a rezoning from General Industrial to General Business, and will go before Burlington Town Meeting later this month for approval - it requires a two-thirds vote in the affirmative to pass. Developers have promised town officials that none of the proposed establishments would exceed 15,000 square feet and would consist of upscale, nationally-known retailers, with additional promises to avoid the so-called 'big box' stores that were so popular in the 1980s and 1990s.

The Reading project once contained a Phase II portion that would have consisted of a hotel and office park, but Dickinson Development recently received approval from the town to change the use to retail, and the Phase 2 portion of the site (to be located along the left side of the development) will look structurally very similar to The Loop retail development along Route 213 in Methuen. The site is expected to include Staples, Linens and Things, and Starbucks, and three other retailers have been confirmed as being part of the project -

Romano's Macaroni Grill, Bank of America, and Bear Rock Cafe. Other firms rumored to be interested in the site are:

- a gadget store, featuring electronic devices and phones
- a kids store
- a clothing store
- a party supply store

Dickinson Development was selected by the town's Board of Selectmen in April 2000 to develop the 33.5 acre Walkers Brook Drive landfill site which overlooks Route 128 and Lake Quannapowitt. As part of developing the site, Dickinson has capped the landfill in accordance with the standards of the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection.

Located 13 miles north of downtown Boston, the unique topography of the Walkers Brook Drive landfill site allowed a creative vertical design of the retail section in the middle of the property.

Because of the varying site elevations, the 140,000+ square foot Home Depot located there and a 180,000 square foot Jordan's Furniture (set to open in October) will be located on different levels of the same structure.

Each store has its own front door and parking area and the stores face in opposite directions. A 400-seat 3D IMAX theatre will be located within Jordan's Furniture. A 5,500 square foot Chili's Restaurant is now open and located in a separate building at the front of the parcel. Phase Two of the project is expected to include approximately 75,000 square feet of additional upscale retail space.

Woodchips from S-1

he didn't even need MAPS, CHARTS or GRAPHS and he wasn't concerned about HIGHS and LOWS or how the wind will blow.

In fact, his WEATHER REPORT was short and sweet - "It's going to RAIN OR SNOW and the HUM-A-DIG-ITY (humidity) is fifty percent..."

Richie Gillis returned a HAMMOCK that he received as a present because he has only ONE TREE on his lawn...

Okay, so you want to be a RADIO ANNOUNCER? Well, say this without stumbling over your words and you're a sure fit for the world of radio: "A box of biscuits, a box of mixed biscuits and a biscuit mixer."

If you can manage to say that, the POWERFUL LITTLE FIVE WATTER in Nashville, Tennessee needs you...

Are you a VEGETARIAN? Do you want a BIG SQUASH?

If so, try this: drink a bottle of VODKA TONIGHT and you will wake up with a BIG SQUASH TOMORROW...

I asked the VETERINARIAN why my DOG always runs around in CIRCLES for about two minutes after he wakes up every morning.

The vet explained to me, "I can see you have a great WATCH DOG - he has to WIND himself up every morning!"

Mystic Players of Medford presents Bye Bye Birdie

What happens to a wimpy manager, his faithful secretary, and one lucky teenage fan when an Elvis-like teen idol is drafted into the army? In Bye Bye Birdie, a musical presented by the Mystic Players, Conrad Birdie's manager Albert Peterson, played by Scott McAllister, fears his career is ruined with his only client's induction into the army. His secretary Rose Alvarez (Margaret Busse), concocts a publicity stunt that will send Conrad off with a hit song. Conrad is to sing the song to one adoring teenage girl, Kim MacAfee, and kiss her goodbye on national television. Kim's steady boyfriend does not approve of this plan, and Albert's overbearing mother does not approve of his romance with Rose.

Bye Bye Birdie is set in an innocent small town in 1958. The songs, by Charles Strouse and Lee Adams, include Put on a Happy Face, Kids, A Lot of Livin' to Do, and Rosie. Lisa McDonough takes on the role of Kim, and Nicholas Christopher is teen idol Conrad Birdie. The cast also includes, Deborah Hollowell as Mae Peterson, Timothy Cahill, Joseph Mafera, Maria Seaver, Tom McLaughlin, ALL OF WOBURN.

DREAMBOATS

Stephanie Perkins of BURLINGTON, Lisa Paris of LYNNFIELD, Amanda DiMauro of NORTH READING, Lauren Donovan of READING, Marie Marino of STONEHAM, Rachel Coombes of TEWKSBURY, Colby Mattheson of WAKEFIELD, Linda Callahan of WILMINGTON, Mary Carpenter of WINCHESTER, Jessica Galante of WOBURN.

SUPERSTARS

Alexandra Wall of BURLINGTON, Michael Perziale of LYNNFIELD, Michelle Hollebeke of NORTH READING, Victoria Rawcliffe of READING, Arthur Marino of STONEHAM, Keith Hyland of TEWKSBURY, Arthur Cole of WAKEFIELD, Julia Carter of WILM-

Albert's mother, and Adam Annable as Kim's sweetheart Hugo.

Kelly Bucher makes her debut with The Mystic Players as director of Bye Bye Birdie. She has directed numerous productions in the area, most recently The Winthrop Playmakers' Fiddler on the Roof. She brings with her from that acclaimed show EMACT's musical director of the year Mr. Thom Lissey. Katie Clark is choreographing the energetic dance numbers. Katie is a long-time Mystic Player, seen most recently as Bonnie in 2001's Anything Goes. Karen Young and Michael Clancey are the show's producers.

Bye Bye Birdie will be playing at the Chevalier Theater, 12 Forest Street in Medford, on September 9, 10, and 11 at 8 PM, and on September 12 at 3 PM. Tickets may be purchased from any cast member, at the Bestsellers Café in Medford Square, or with your credit card at www.mysticplayers.org. Ticket prices are $18.50 for adults, $16.50 for seniors and students. For more information, call 781-396-PLAY.

INGTON, Paul Kelly of WINCHESTER, Joseph Sullivan of WOBURN.

I remember when my Aunt Nora was summoned for JURY DUTY. Being in her early eighties, she could have been excused from serving, but she really wanted to PERFORM what she felt was her CIVIC DUTY and she was subsequently QUESTIONED during the JURY SELECTION process.

Aunt Nora was asked, "Do you know the PROSECUTOR in this case?"

"Yes," Nora replied, "and HE'S A CROOK." Following this statement, the courtroom bustled with chatter and when the judge finally hushed the crowd, Nora was questioned again: "Do you know the DEFENSE LAWYER?"

Aunt Nora didn't hesitate for even a second when she said, "Yes, I know him and HE'S A CROOK TOO!" This time the judge called for a half-hour RECESS and then returned for a bench conference.

The JUDGE whispered to the prosecutor and defense lawyer, "If either one of you LEGAL BEAGLES ask that FEISTY WOMAN if she knows me, I'll find both of you in CONTEMPT and throw the book at you!"

Tony Stack's wife Mary said to him, "I wish you didn't DRIVE so FAST. There's a POLICE OFFICER in a cruiser behind you and it appears as though he's trying to get by..."

My sister Kathleen took her little daughter Diane to church for a WEDDING CEREMONY. Following the event, Diane asked her mother, "Did the bride CHANGE HER MIND?"

"Why do you ask that?" the mother inquired. Diane replied, "Well, the bride went DOWN THE AISLE with one man and back UP THE AISLE with another!"

"Your Honor," my nephew Dennis Tully said, "the entire FIGHT started when I was in a TELEPHONE BOOTH talking to my girl, then that man jerked the door open and threw me out, saying he WANTED to USE THE PHONE."

"I see," said the judge, "that's when you STARTED TO FIGHT with him?"

And to that inquiry, my nephew replied, "No, your honor. The fight started when he reached in, GRABBED my GIRL and threw her out too..."

I was talking to my friend Joe when there was an EXPLOSION in his next door neighbor's house. We glanced up and saw a HUSBAND AND WIFE sailing up through the roof.

Joe turned to me and said, "Chipper, I've known that couple for over TEN YEARS and his is the FIRST TIME I've seen them GO OUT TOGETHER in all that time..."

On MEMORIAL DAY most people put flowers on the graves of their dearly departed.

A house with options

Children go off to college and we think about making "the big move." The sellers of this lovely ten room home have decided to go from "think" to "let's do it!"

They've enjoyed their new kitchen for a year and a half. They chose Thomasville cherry cabinets to offset the granite countertops. Instead of all bottom cabinets, they chose to upgrade and put in the deep Thomasville drawers which afford them a better use of space. Pewter tone handles and pulls blend nicely with the stainless steel sink and black appliances. The white ceramic floor and back splash provide a wonderful contrast. The 5 burner gas countertop stove is every cook's dream. The sellers also chose to have a wall oven and built-in microwave oven. A granite peninsula separates the kitchen and dining room and provides the family extra storage and a "breakfast bar area." The main floor and staircase of this updated home are hardwood which gives the fire-placed living room a more formal look. The oversized picture window keeps the room bathed in sunlight. The first floor family room which was added to the back of the house has a cathedral ceiling and lots of windows making it bright and cheery.

If you're looking for an extended family living arrangement, then this could be the home for you. The lower level of this split level style home was once used for that purpose. The fourth bedroom has a fireplace making it a little special. White walls and 2 windows make it light and bright. The lower level main room is set up as living room and pool table room with a wet bar. It would be easy to turn it right back into a kitchen. Also on this level is a full bath and laundry room. A small work room is perfect for crafting and storage.

How about an in-home office? With access from the main part of the house, this office space also has its own entrance from the driveway. It has just been done over with a new ceramic tile floor and fresh paint. Lots of windows look out onto the backyard.

Let's talk about the yard! The new Pella slider in the lower level family area opens onto a new 29x19 brick patio area. The 10,000 sf landscaped lot is all flat and usable. It's perfect to catch the end of summer fun. As we enter into the fall season the backyard will be streaked in color, as it backs up to almost four acres of woods.

Seminar for first time home buyers

If you are renting an apartment or a house, and your rent costs $750 per month or more, you could most likely qualify to own your own home, according to Linda Bunce, Divisional Vice President of CTX Mortgage Company. At today's low interest rates, says Bunce, your mortgage payment for a $90,000 condo would be no more than you are paying for rent now. You could even purchase a home with as little as $500 of your own money.

Seminar

Bunce will be presenting a free seminar for potential first-time home buyers on Thursday, September 16th, 2004 from 6:00-7:00 pm at 248 Main Street, Suite 103 in Reading.

"With interest rates at their lowest levels in 20 years, it is a lot easier today to qualify for your first home purchase," says Bunce. "People have not yet become fully aware of just how simple it is to qualify, and how affordable homes are today."

Mercurio at Boardwalk

James M. Joly and David E. Hurley, Principals of Boardwalk Real Estate Corp. of Reading, Wakefield and Woburn are proud to announce that Wakefield resident Ann M. Mercurio has rejoined their team of professional realtors.

Mercurio is a licensed Real Estate Broker and comes to Boardwalk with twenty years of experience in the business community, including several years of successful real estate sales.

Mercurio enjoyed a successful career as a business application consultant and project manager. While more recently, she has traveled extensively throughout the country implementing business systems solutions in the utilities industries.

Mercurio and her family are longtime residents of Wakefield and are active members of the community.

"We are extremely pleased to have someone with Ann's career history and credentials on our staff," Hurley remarked.

Additionally, Mercurio is a member of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, the Eastern Middlesex Association of Realtors and the MLS/Pin Information Network System.

For real estate assistance provided by a courteous, experienced professional, Ann Mercurio welcomes the opportunity to work on behalf of area residents.

Contact Ann Mercurio via the Boardwalk Real Estate Corp. offices at 781-944-7820, extension 420.
